

Menasha Girl Found Slain In Milwaukee

Suzanne Srubas, 18, Was Strangled In New Apartment

MILWAUKEE — Police are investigating the strangulation murder of an 18-year-old girl who was found dead Wednesday in the east side apartment she and her roommate had rented Oct. 8.

Officials said that the nude body of Miss Suzanne C. Srubas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Srubas, 410 Naymut St., Menasha, was found shortly before 5 p.m. sprawled across her bed. Officials originally said she had been sexually assaulted but today Leo Woelfel, inspector of detectives for the Milwaukee police department, said there is some question about this.

The victim's roommate, Miss Donna O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon O'Connell, 711 Nicolet St., Neenah, and Miss O'Connell's boy friend, Kenneth Smith, 20, Milwaukee, had returned to the apartment and found the door locked, police said. When they received no response to the buzzer and knocking, Smith crawled through the living room window of the first floor apartment and opened the door for Miss O'Connell.

Bruises on Body

Miss O'Connell discovered the body as she entered the bedroom. There were bruises on the victim's head, neck and legs, the medical examiner's report indicated. A postmortem examination performed Wednesday night determined that strangulation was the cause of death, Woelfel said.

Miss Srubas, attractive and with reddish-brown hair, apparently had been home awaiting a call for work. She had worked for a short time in a temporary job at a vitamin company, her mother said, but hadn't been contacted by a private temporary employment agency for further employment since being laid off a few weeks ago.

Sought Work

Mrs. Srubas said her daughter had been in Milwaukee about two months. The two girls had gone there, thinking they would have a better chance for finding work, she said.

She said she had talked to her daughter on the telephone Sunday and that Suzanne had been home two weeks ago and had promised to send her mother the address of her new apartment.

The girls had lived with Miss O'Connell's aunt in Milwaukee until about three weeks ago, Mrs. Srubas said. The apartment, apparently a three-story building at 1600 E. Knapp St., reportedly is in a section of the city where many young, working people lived.

Woelfel said that the victim had last been seen at her apartment about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday but he declined to say who had seen her. He described the location of the apartment as a "rooming house area."

1970 Graduate

Miss Srubas, a 1970 graduate of Menasha High School, was described by her high school guidance counselor, Miss Bernice Miller, as "a very quiet girl...very capable...a good student." She called her "a very nice girl...a wholesome, good citizen."

She had graduated 42nd in a class of 250 and had considered attending college but didn't have enough money.

The Srubas family, formerly from a Chicago suburb, had moved to Menasha when Suzanne was in the fifth grade. She graduated from St. Patrick's Catholic Elementary School.

Miss O'Connell is a 1970 graduate of Neenah High School.

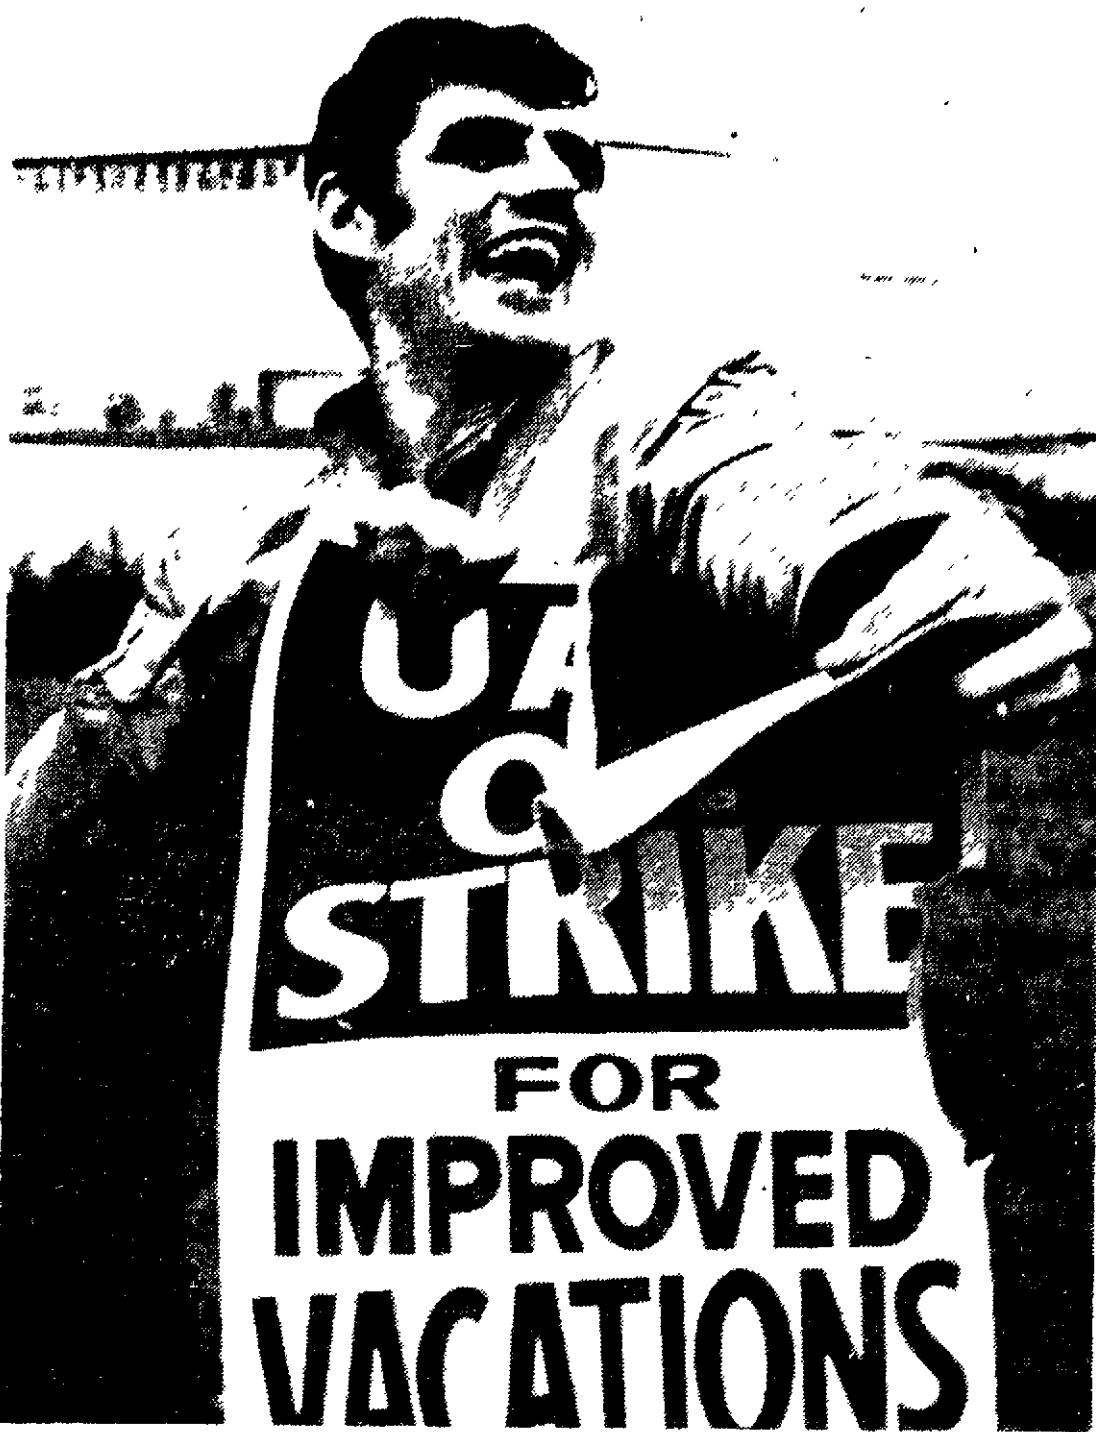

The victim's father drove to Milwaukee this morning to talk to authorities.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Laemmrich Funeral Home, Menasha.

Miss Srubas is survived by her parents, three brothers, three sisters, all of Menasha, and her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Kowaleski, Oak Forest, Ill.

FOR IMPROVED VACATIONS

A Happy Picket at the Windsor, Ontario, General Motors plant tears up his placard Wednesday after hearing that a tentative settlement had been reached in the eight-week strike of workers in the United States and Canada

Union Council Reviewing Offers

Vote by Auto Workers Is Pending

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of 394,000 striking General Motors workers met today to decide whether to accept or reject a new three-year contract tentatively agreed on by bargaining for the corporation and the United Auto Workers.

If the 350-member GM council of the UAW accepts the proposed pact, it will be put before the union rank and file for a vote.

Rejection of the pact by the council would send the union's negotiators back to the bargaining table and would almost certainly push the eight-week old strike into 1971.

The contract, whose provisions had been withheld from the public until the GM council meeting, contained these items: —Wage increases or decreases—with no maximum or minimum—of one-cent an hour for each 4 change in the Consumer Price Index. This is the so-called cost-of-living allowance.

A wage increase in the first year of the contract ranging from 49 to 61 cents an hour, depending on pay scale, and averaging 51 cents.

Retirement at $500 a month after 30 years of service at age 58 initially and at age 56 after Oct. 1, 1972.

The UAW, which had agreed to a ceiling on cost-of-living allowances in 1967, made a return to the unlimited formula a top demand in this year's negotiations. Unlike the formula in effect prior to 1967, however, workers will get no cost-of-living pay increases during the first year of the contract. On Dec. 5, 1971 their wages will be raised one cent an hour for each .4 rise in the Consumer Price Index during the preceding year. Thereafter, wages will be adjusted in accordance with the Consumer Price Index on a quarterly basis.

Average Raise In the first year of the contract a worker earning $3.50 an hour or less in straight wages will get a 49-cent raise. A man making $6.34 or more will get a 61-cent-an-hour increase. The worker earning the current average hourly wage in the industry—$4.02 hourly—will get a 51-cent raise.

In each of the last two years of the contract straight wages will be raised by 11 cents an hour for a man making $3.84 or less and by 22 cents an hour for a man making $7.49 or more. A worker earning between $4.50 and $4.83 an hour will get a 12-cent-an-hour raise in each of the last two years.

The union had sought pay increases in the first year ranging from 61.5 cents to 84 cents and averaging 63 cents an hour. The company's last offer before the strike was for a pay hike ranging from 36 cents to 48 cents and averaging 38 cents an hour.

Retirement The contract allows a worker with 30 years of service to retire at $500 a month at age 58 effective Oct. 1, 1971 and at age 56 effective Oct. 1, 1972. A worker with 30 years service can take early retirement prior to reaching those ages but will get 8 percent less a month for each year he is under the limit.

Basic pensions will be increased by $1.75 on retirement at age 65 for each year of service. Under the old agreement workers would be retiring at 65 and get a basic monthly pension of $5.50, $5.75 or $6.00, depending on classifications, for each year of service. They will now get $7.25, $7.50 or $7.75 a month for each year of service.

The company also agreed to increase its maximum contribution to the supplemental unemployment benefit fund from seven cents to 10 cents an hour per worker. Workers who are laid off get up to 90 per cent of the regular wages from the SUB fund.

The contract also provides for four weeks vacation after 20 years.

New York's Chase Bank Cuts Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, announced today a cut in its prime lending rate from 7½ per cent to 7¼ per cent.

The reduction which reflects the interest charged to a bank's most credit-worthy corporate clients, follows a cut Wednesday in the prime rate by a small Washington, D.C., bank, the First National Bank of Washington.

Today's action follows, too, a cut in the discount rate Tuesday by the Federal Reserve Board. The discount rate is the rate the Federal Reserve Board charges member banks for borrowings. The prime rate has been at 7½ per cent since Sept. 21 when it was lowered from 8 per cent by the country's major banks.

Savings and Loans Checking Service Expansion Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — tax and loan accounts—ranging from $5 billion to $10 billion—House Banking Committee said today he is drafting a bill which would allow savings and loans associations to offer checking account service.

Patman said the bill he will offer in the new Congress also will provide 100 per cent insurance for local government deposits with savings and loans groups and permit the associations to handle federal deposits. Patman, D-Tex., and longtime banking system critic, reported the main features of his omnibus savings and loan bill to the United States Savings and Loan League convention.

"It is a gross absurdity—and a serious inequity—to give the commercial banks a total monopoly over checking accounts," he said in an address prepared for the convention.

"Many savers would come to the savings and loans if they could obtain basic checking account privileges," he said. "The savings and loan industry, to try must also be given a better deal—a fair deal—in the deposit household furnishings. Such of public monies." Patman said, loans now are limited to major public appliances such as freezers and funds of the federal government refrigerators.

He said this savings and loan service expansion would help millions of consumers to "avoid the clutches of loan sharks."

De Gaulle Buried After Simple Rites

COLOMBEY LES DEUX EGLISES, France (AP) — Charles in the blue, white and red tricolor of France, left the home Catholic church. Some made the in a country churchyard while where De Gaulle died Monday, about 40,000 persons crowded bearing the simple wooden casket.

An armored vehicle, draped with the French flag, led the funeral procession. The widow and other members of the family followed in black limousines.

The morning had been filled with sunshine, but the clouds began moving in to darken the day as it fit the mood of the hour. While soldiers saluted the coffin, pallbearers—all young men of the village—carried it into the church.

The choir, also composed of the young of the village, sang a requiem. The first pews were occupied by the mayor and the village council. Many mourners held lighted candles.

The coffin lay on a wooden base. Six candles flickered around it.

There were no flowers in the church. The only decoration was two sprays of autumn leaves at the altar.

De Gaulle's son, Philippe, a navy captain, his profile remarkably like that of his father, sat near Andre Malraux, war-time and postwar intimate of De Gaulle, in the midst of the congregation.

Outside the crowd listened to the service over loudspeakers

Second Epistle of St. Paul to Timothy was read by the Rev. Francois de Gaulle, the general's nephew.

At Mass The mass was celebrated by Father de Gaulle, the Rev. Claude Jaugey, the village curate, and the local bishop, Msgr. Alfred Atton.

"We are gathered here in the unanimity of our attachment and our recognition of Gen. de Gaulle, who called to Him," the bishop said. As Christians, we are all the more deeply united by our faith in the infinite love of God. It is to Him we address our prayers for Charles de Gaulle, for his family, for France."

The congregation sang "I put my faith in the Savior. I am sure of His word. My soul hears the Savior. I am sure of His word."

The bishop read from the Bible the resurrection of Lazarus, then asked for silence and meditation.

Thousands more filled the surrounding gray streets and the esplanade in front of the cathedral on the Ile de la Cite, in the middle of the Seine. More thousands lined the boulevards through which the official guests traveled to the cathedral.

World Leaders The world's representatives ranged from Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a tiny, aged figure in beribboned military uniform, to Prince Charles of Britain, whose youth and bright complexion stood out among the elders, many of them De Gaulle's contemporaries.

Former British Prime Ministers Anthony Eden—Lord Avon—and Harold Macmillan, former Israeli Premier David

Ben-Gurion, former West German Chancellors Ludwig Erhard and Kurt Georg Kiesinger—men who had dealt with De Gaulle in their time in power—sat behind the chairs of the present-day presidents and premiers. Among them were President Nixon and Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Nixon sat on one side of the nave, dressed in a morning coat

Proxmire for President?

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said "I am very flattered," said Mrs. Proxmire, who won 70 per cent of the vote in his Nov. 3 victory.

He said that a group is being formed to boost him for a presidential nomination, but is more by But I am interested in being the best senator I know how.

The committee—"US Senator I have a big job and I will concentrate all of my attention on Committee of Wisconsin"—was announced by Richard D. Cudahy, former Democratic state chairman and president of the meat packing firm which carries his family's name.

"We feel we have our man in Sen. Proxmire," Cudahy said. "It's a long way until 1972."

President Nixon is in a somber mood this morning at memorial services in Paris for French leader Charles de Gaulle who died Tuesday.

Brown New Member
Of House of Lords

LONDON (AP) — George Brown, a truck driver's son who became a deputy prime minister and foreign minister of Britain, has entered the House of Lords as Baron George-Brown of Jevington. Brown was made a life peer after the defeat in June of the Labor government he helped lead. He took his oath of fealty to Queen Elizabeth II in the House of Lords Tuesday.

I'm not being sarcastic. . . What are you getting mad at me for? I'm the one who lost the election. . . "Hello, Yes, dear. What's happening? Bishop Tells Of $1.2 Million Diocese Budget

2nd Annual Drive Will Seek to Raise Total of $795,000

About $1.2 million will be needed in 1971 to cover the cost of administrative, educational and social welfare needs of the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay, the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop, has announced.

In a statement issued at a press conference Wednesday, he said that of this amount, $795,000 will be sought through the second annual diocesan services appeal.

The rest of the needed funds will be realized from diocesan investments, parish assessments and contributions, the prelate said.

This is the second time in the history of the diocese that the diocesan budget has been made public. Wycislo announced the budget last year when he opened the first diocesan services appeal.

The 1970 budget was $1,145,800. The appeal was $750,000, which was met.

This year's appeal, the bishop said, is slightly higher because of two additions, the education fund of $100,000 to meet emergencies in the school system, and the $25,000 U. S. Bishop's Campaign for human development to initiate self-help programs in poverty areas.

The agencies benefiting from the services appeals, as outlined by Wycislo Wednesday are:

- Department of Religious Education-CCD, $112,400. "Recognizing the fact that the majority of Catholic students are in public schools the education department to provide full-time coordinators for every parish."
- Newman Apostolate, $72,100. "The church must be explained to the young people in modern times in line with their education and experience."
- Priests' health program, $27,000. "To insure that every priest in top physical, mental and emotional health, the program encourages annual physical check-ups. Since its inception this past year, the program has been used by 150 priests."

Consideration is given to extending the services to the sisters in the diocese.

- Diocesan missionary activities, $14,100. The diocese has three priests doing missionary work in the Dominican Republic.
- Priests' education program, $20,000. It allows some to continue their education at graduate schools. Plans are to enlarge the program so that every priest can attend an annual seminar on such topics as theology, Scripture and public speaking.
- Home for elderly and low income families, $3,500. The first project is Villa West, in Green Bay. Recently the Federal Housing Administration released funds for its construction.
- Catholic charities, (apostolate) $173,500. Includes adoption services, foster care, marriage and family counseling and financial assistance.
- Seminary, $100,000.
- Vocations, $8,000.
- Holy Land, $14,000.

A contingency fund of $125,000 also has been established.

Asked where the money from the contingency fund was being used, Wycislo said that there are many unexpected needs that crop up during the year. He mentioned loans to parishes and schools who found themselves short of cash.

Eventually, he said, he hopes the fund will be built up to a point where it can be eliminated from the appeal.

Assisting the bishop with the drive are William F. Kerwin, Jr., Green Bay businessman, as co-chairman and Jay coordinator; Joseph A. Neufeld, Green Bay businessman and investment consultant, diocesan chairman of the appeal and Gus Zuehlke, Appleton banker, who is serving as chairman of the bishop's personal solicitation committee.

There are 309,945 Catholics in the diocese, or 46.2 per cent of the total population. A total of 298 active diocesan priests care for 193 parishes. Nearly 200 religious priests reside in the area and a total of 1,198 nuns are in charge of the various duties in schools and convents.

Fiscal Board OKs Higher Kaukauna School Budget

BY ED VAN BERKEL Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — The fiscal control board of the school district Wednesday night approved a 1971 school budget of $3,190,212 or $398,704 more than the 1970 figure.

The approved budget is $78,421 below the original 1971 budget request, but is in line with a revised budget submitted by the board of education.

Because of the loss of some state aids, a deficit this year that must be made up and a reduction in other revenues, the actual tax levy will take a larger jump than the budget increase. It will go from the present $2,247,310 to $2,713,453.

Aldermen and village and town officials comprising the fiscal control board have a total of 663 votes with a majority needed to approve the budget. A tally revealed 340.125 votes in favor of the budget and 322.875 opposed.

Hours of Deliberation

Approval of the budget came only after several hours of deliberation which found fiscal board members trying to suggest areas for budget reduction as well as request the school board to reinstate items already earmarked for deletion in the new budget.

Tax levy comparison for 1970-71 shows Kaukauna up $327,809 to $1,984,077; Town of Harrison up $36,125 to $173,661; Town of Buchanan up $30,030 to $147,340; Town of Vandenberg up $30,220 to $156,294; Town of Woodville up $11,891 to $62,680; Town of Holland up $11,638 to $58,881; Town of Kaukauna up $7,200 to $37,988; Little Chute up $10,989 to $84,811 and Sherwood up $186 to $37,717.

Deletions from the original budget included $8,265 in instructional costs, including $4,765 for elimination of a closed noon hour, $2,000 for a summer social studies curriculum study program and $1,500 for elementary supplies and textbooks, all of which were requested reinstated by some of the fiscal members, but not enough to carry out the motion.

Health Services

A total of $7,540 in health service programs was eliminated, including a school nurse and school psychologist to work 20 days on the elementary level. One fiscal board member also felt the latter should be reinstated, but this also failed to receive support from the majority of members.

Mead Names New Gilbert Paper Head

MENASHA — Gordon Kettering has been named president and general manager of the Gilbert Paper Co. division of The Mead Corp. He succeeds Virgil Perry, who has become vice president - manufacturing for the Mead Papers division.

Kettering has been manager of Mead's corporate engineering department since 1967. A native of Dayton, Ohio, he joined Mead after his graduation from Ohio State University in 1949.

During his 21-year Mead career, Kettering has served in engineering and management posts in Mead's Chillicothe, Ohio, and Kingsport, Tenn., mills and in corporate engineering. He was selected to attend The Mead Corporation's Professional Management Seminar at Granville, Ohio, in 1967. He is a member of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry.

Kettering's appointment is effective Dec. 1 and he hopes to move his family to the Neenah-Menasha area in the near future.

"During the several years I've known 'Ket' I've come to know a number of the people there, and I'm very much looking forward to meeting the rest."

has a high regard for people and he believes in giving the opportunities to develop themselves. I'm confident he'll be able to help Gilbert continue its fine record."

Kettering will be making a get-acquainted visit in mid-November. "I'm just delighted at this opportunity," he said. "Gilbert is a fine organization. I know a number of the people there, and I'm very much looking forward to meeting the rest."

Ald. George Simon (3rd) led the fight to have the closed noon hour reinstated in the budget, indicating the $4.765 savings would only result in more police costs. He reminded the board that merchants favored the closed noon hour to prevent students from roaming through stores.

Ald. William Rogers (5th) felt instructional costs amounting to $3,500 and the $540 for a

Jail Gets Board OK

BY DON CASTONIA Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County will get a new jail facility — maybe, if... By a 37-10 vote, supervisors this morning committed themselves to constructing a jail facility at the present courthouse site. At the same time, the Special Building Committee was directed to submit modified plans to the board for approval and the Finance Committee directed to provide funding with both actions to be completed by the December board meeting.

In a parliamentary move, the action was then reconsidered and approved a second time, theoretically preventing the board from changing its mind again next month.

A move by Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, to table the resolution failed to get a second. During the past three years, the board has reached the same stage on two occasions, only to change its mind to investigate other proposals. Both the building plans and the bonding must still be approved by the board before the decision is irreversible.

The proposed building consists of three floors, two of which would be directly tied into the courthouse annex and one tied into the courtroom floor of the courthouse.

Estimated cost for the 44,876 square foot structure was put at $1,750,000.

The building would have administrative space on the first floor, security cells on the second and Huber law dormitories on the third.

Ben Seaborne, of Sauter Seaborne, Paynter, Duszak Architects, Ltd., said that no basement had been provided in the plan to keep costs down and because the building was designed to function in conjunction with the annex.

Supv. Jerome Hiler, Appleton, chairman of the Special Building Committee, said that alterations, including a partial basement could be considered in the bidding.

The proposal does not provide for courtroom space in the building but calls for moving the law library and district attorney offices with that courtroom space being converted into courtrooms.

Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, and Wussow, two of the proponents of building a new courthouse complex at the county farm, again led the opposition. Schreiter said the county was ready to spend $1.6 million for a building of 45,000 square feet with questionable expansion possibilities while it rejected spending $3.6 million for a building of 140,000 square feet with unlimited expansion potential.

According to cost figures submitted by the architects, they had added $126,937 to the cost of the building because of inflation since their original proposal was submitted 14 months ago.

Supv. Delmar Schmeichel, towns of Center and Ellington, who moved for the reconsideration vote, said "Let's finish it once and for all."

Supervisors Vote to Join Both COG, Northeastern

Outagamie County will finance memberships in two planning agencies in 1971 but has served notice that it wants the regional planning feud stopped by the end of that year or it may quit both.

In a 33-11 vote, supervisors agreed Wednesday to pick up the $61,000 that eight Outagamie County communities would have to pay next year for membership in the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

The county also will pay $23,114 for its membership in the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Wednesday's action was not final, however. Payment of the membership fees is contingent on contractual agreements and legal questions being resolved to the satisfaction of the board's executive committee.

Meeting Called

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, called a meeting of the executive committee for Nov. 20 to settle those questions. DeLaHunt said it was important the questions be resolved before Dec. 1 so the communities involved could set their budgets.

Approval of joining the $61,000 did not come as easily as the vote margin would suggest. To help offset the effect on the tax levy, the board reduced the proposed contingency fund for next year from $150,000 to $100,000.

County Administrator Alvin Woehler warned committees they would then have to recognize there could be no deviation from their departmental budgets next year. Woehler originally had asked for a $200,000 contingency fund and it previously had been cut by the finance committee.

Leads Rural Fight

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, led a fight of representatives from communities not now belonging to COG.

"It may be futile to talk against subsidizing Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna," Babbitt said. "Why aren't you honest," he asked of proponents of the move. "If it costs $61,000 to get rid of Northeastern, put it on paper."

Some unexpected support for the payment came from Supv. Ervin Conradt, rural Shiocton. "I'm not always anti-urban," he quipped. "I am sympathetic to the cause of the municipalities because they have helped us (rural areas of the county) these past years," he said.

Conradt was referring to the county's membership in Northeastern for which the entire county is assessed but only the rural areas served. "We will be helping the municipalities for one year in return for benefits we received the last eight or nine years," Conradt said.

However, several other rural supervisors objected to paying while not receiving any of the benefits of membership.

Supv. Alfred Krause, Town of Liberty, said "I can't see the benefit of belonging to two. We should serve notice we will not belong to either in 1972 if they don't get together."

Town of Vandenberg Supv. George Kroes said he thought the entire county would benefit whether or not the communities were formally members. He said COG had done work for the Town of Vandenberg before it became a member.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, said the county's action would "motivate" the planning agencies to get together. He said he did not think the concern was to have money for the cities but rather to have the county take more of a service role.

In other action, the board approved preliminary plans to refinance four of its short-term notes in a consolidated bond issue.

The four notes, two on the airport, one for a Plamann School addition and the fourth for the Highway Department office and courthouse parking, total $1,262,500.

The principal payments on the four notes which would be due in 1971 amount to $387,500. In waiving those payments, the board agreed to make double payments in 1972 if a bond issue is not floated next year.

Woehler said the notes would be combined with the bond issue for the new jail, if a jail is built. However, he said, "I would recommend bonding whether you build a jail or not. I don't feel we should finance capital improvements with short-term notes."

Merger With COG? Northeastern Ready to Talk

Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission members unanimously endorsed the position statement of the chairman today calling for talks on a merger with the other Appleton-based regional planning agency.

Commission members Henry Alhiser, Shawano; Henry Breiing, rural New London, and Alfred Becher, Menasha, were named to a three-man committee which would represent the nonmetropolitan regional planning commission in the talks.

The move comes on the heels of Outagamie County's resolution to participate in both planning agencies for the calendar year 1971 to determine which agency or whether a merger of the two could best serve the county's planning needs in the future.

The other agency, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), is taking a wait-and-see attitude. However, the proposal of Gordon Bubolz, Northeastern chairman, to initiate talks on merging the agencies will be brought before COG delegates next week.

Program Duplication

The county had belonged to Northeastern for years but supervisors and other officials in Outagamie and Winnebago counties have become concerned in recent years about the duplication of programs and area served by the two agencies.

Bubolz said the commissions COG serves 15 municipalities in two counties.

Bubolz, who issued his statement Wednesday, said

Northeastern is ready to act on a merger. He said it would eliminate competition between planning staffs; have urban and rural divisions under a common director, and direct a singular productive effort towards the region's planning problems.

His statement was issued before the county board decision Wednesday afternoon to join COG and reportedly was distributed to supervisors.

He said that Northeastern isn't asking if there should be a merger but how and when. "A unified planning effort within this area, with a regional approach, will make it possible to relate the urban and rural areas to the inter-related problems that are faced jointly," he said.

Bubolz said the commissions can legally merge, and it would mean a savings to the taxpayer and "will obtain more in the form of grant and aid funds."

Phone Company Asks Rate Increase

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Wisconsin Telephone Co., citing a "serious deterioration in earnings," asked the Wisconsin Public Service Commission Monday for a rate increase.

The utility, Wisconsin's largest telephone firm, said it was not seeking a specific increase but enough "to enable it to earn at the level previously authorized by the PSC."

Wisconsin Telephone said its earnings have not come anywhere near the rate of return allowed by the commission in its rate order of June 10, 1970. The application cited inflationary factors, including construction costs, higher wages, and high interest rates on its debt.

The company points out two significant differences between the current application and the one filed in December, 1968, which culminated this summer in the first local telephone rate increase since 1958.

This is a "make whole" application, which does not ask PSC determination of an appropriate rate but seeks authority to structure rates to attain the earnings level already authorized.

Second, the company proposed placing all new adjustments on long distance calls within Wisconsin. The previous increase affected both local and intrastate long distance rates.

The company said that factors resulting in deterioration of its earnings include:

- Construction expenditures in 1970 of nearly $100 million to meet increased customer demands for telephone service.
- Increase in rates and related costs in 1970 will add to the company's costs.
- To finance the construction program, the firm has increased the amount of debt at today's high interest costs.
- The company has negotiated increased payments to independent telephone companies for participation in intrastate long distance calls of almost $3 million more than was included in the rate case.

Learn From Experience With Trees

Paper Industry Optimistic About Reducing Pollution

NEENAH — The Wisconsin paper industry is optimistic about solving pollution problems, say its leaders, partly because of their experience with paper's basic raw material, trees.

According to a 20-page brochure entitled "Paper Fights Pollution," distributed by the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, an association which represents most paper manufacturers and some related firms, "only 30 or 40 years ago, there was great concern that our forests would disappear. Serious invasions were being made by insects, disease and fire, plus America's need for lumber, paper and other forest products.

"In cooperation with state and federal governments, forest-oriented industries developed a whole new science of forest management. Selective cutting and widespread reforestation provided new and vigorous growth."

The brochure features four leading industry figures — Dr.

Robert A. Holm, an environmental scientist from the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton; George W. Mead II, president of Consolidated Papers, Inc., Wisconsin Rapids; William R. Nelson, Director of Corporate Development, Green Bay Packaging Inc., Green Bay, and Paul E. Truittschel, a vice president of Appleton Coated Paper Co. and current general chairman of the information service.

On behalf of the entire organization, Truittschel offers the following statement of policy:

"The Wisconsin Paper Industry's objective is to protect the physical health of man and improve the natural environment through whatever prevention and reduction of manufacturing pollutants is possible.

"We'll work toward this objective by:

- "Continual monitoring of our manufacturing processes.
- "Application of research and engineering efforts.
- "Compliance with the spirit, as well as the letter, of anti-pollution laws.

"Installation of equipment most adaptable to pollution abatement, and "Promotion of understanding between our industry and our public."

"In Wisconsin alone, to supplement natural regrowth, forest products firms have planted nearly 100 million trees since the 1930s," Nelson stated.

"Here, and elsewhere in America, much more wood is grown today than can be used

Works Unit Okays Neenah Overpass

NEENAH — Motorists are going to have a railroad-free access to eastern portions of the city and town via an extension of Breezewood Lane from U.S. 41 to S. Commercial Street. All that remains is to determine how it's going to be paid for and when it's going to be built. The public works committee Wednesday night went on record favoring a proposal to extend Breezewood as a 48-foot roadway from the planned interchange at U.S. 41 all the way to S. Commercial at an estimated cost of $731,710. Cost estimates and preliminary sketches have been prepared by the Department of Transportation, Division of Highways' Green Bay district office for a high-level (23 feet) bridge over the railroad tracks. As proposed, Breezewood lane will be raised to clear U.S. 41 by 16 1/2 feet and will continue going up to clear the tracks at the statutory 23 foot level. It will take about 1,100 feet for the highway to return to ground level and angle into an intersection with Bell Street. City officials have been looking at the possibility of combining the overpass construction with the state financed interchange project. Construction of the interchange is tentatively set for 1972. Although the committee has

Informer Beaten by 3 Assailants

An Appleton Police Department informer was beaten early today by three men who met him in the restroom of a Calumet County nightclub, where he had been playing with a rock band. One of his assailants is thought to be the defendant in a drug case. The 21-year-old informer, from Combined Locks, reportedly suffered face bruises in the beating which took place at Michels in Sherwood about 1 a.m. He was not hospitalized. He has been the state's key witness in the drug cases of four young Fox Valley men, one of whom was convicted Monday for furnishing marijuana. They were all arrested by detectives on information from the informer. Outagamie County authorities said this morning that they would seek criminal charges against the three men who allegedly performed the beating. They expected to consult with Calumet County Dist. Atty. Franklin J. Schmeider this afternoon in connection with the beating. It is the second such beating involving police informers in the last month. About four weeks ago, a 19-year-old rural Appleton girl was knocked unconscious in her home by an unidentified attacker.

$331,000 Slice Sought From School Budget

NEENAH — Led by Ald. Paul Mueller, the fiscal control body Wednesday night limited 1971 school spending to 10 per cent over what is being spent for the current year. Mueller listed inflation, a de-celerating economy and decreasing revenues, as reasons for his proposal to cut by one third the amount of increase that had been asked by the school board. His proposal would set the 1971 total spending at $7,250,000 or about $331,000 less than requested by the school board Monday night. In a related move a special committee including Mueller, Ald. Michael G. Ellis and Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo, was appointed to work with the school board in bringing the spending level down to the limit set by the fiscal control body. "We just don't have the money," Mueller said in defending his proposal. "We have to look at three things — What we want; what we need, and what is essential," he added. "The only way to reduce the spending level is to take a strong hard look at everything that is not essential for teaching. Something has to be eliminated," Mueller continued. The fiscal control body's action, which voted unanimously in favor of Mueller's suggestion, met with strong opposition from school administrators and the school board. "We are all concerned about the economy crisis, and if we cut this much more from the spending, it will only come back to haunt you," Donald Scott, school superintendent warned. Mueller, in his proposal had suggested eliminating every-thing which was not essential to the educational program. "I know you can justify the special programs, but it comes back to the hard fact of dollars and cents. And we have about as much as we can stand. There are some things we just can't buy," Mueller said. C. Andre Pertain, chairman of the school board's finance committee, said that to make the level set by the fiscal control body, "We will have to go back and re-open teacher negotiations, and reduce the existing staff by either letting some go, by breaking contracts, or not filling vacancies as they come up." The school board, earlier in the week, had cut $156,000 from its budget to hold the tax levy to an 11 per cent increase. However, the fiscal control's action shaved another $331,000 which will have the effect of lowering the tax levy even further. As submitted by the school board, the budget called for a tax levy of $5.8 million which was an increase of about $584,000. Much of the increased spending was negated by an offsetting increase on the revenue side of more than $400,000 with more than 25 per cent of that coming from interest earned on the bond money set aside for Armstrong Senior High School. James Clark, school business manager, said today that the additional cuts by the fiscal control would mean a decrease in the revenues, since many of the district state and federal aids are based on total spending and specific programs. "Just how much lower the revenues will be will depend on the programs which are eliminated," Clark said. The school board's finance committee is meeting today with the special fiscal control body three-man committee to find specific areas where spending can be shaved. Two weeks ago, in its first official review of the school budget, the fiscal control body decided that it would allow spending increases only for negotiated salaries, debt service and a small inflationary factor. Ald. Michael Ellis, Third Ward, before Mueller's proposal, argued that the board had complied with the directives by affecting the latest cuts. Built-in Factors Hikes in the debt service for next year are about $246,000 and negotiated salaries add another $285,000 as built-in factors for the 1971 budget. The school board attempted to justify another $460,000 in added spending through increased enrollments and inflation. According to Pertain, the board reduced the number of new teachers from 15 to 10 plus three clerical personnel. Kampo, however challenged the addition of personnel. "Everyone you hire now will mean a built-in cost for next year. During the last four years, the budget has doubled and the taxpayers just can't afford to keep doubling," Kampo explained. The fiscal control body took no action on the proposal.

Alderman Urges Study Of School Expenses

NEENAH — A Neenah high and I don't have the time to go out and look. That's why we need a professional outsider to come in and critique the system," he said. Ellis received support from Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo who continued his four-year-old attack on school spending. "If we have 100 rocks, we can't spend 150. There's only so much money the taxpayers can pay. We can't double the budget every four years," Kampo said. "That's why we need a study," Ellis added. Mayor Roman V. Hauser, pointing to a similar study conducted in the city two years ago, said, "We went through one of those and now all the organized groups are excluded from it." "I don't mean this study to establish pay rates. But it should be a critique of jobs. We are not professional enough to make remarks about pay. I think we should get some experts in here," Ellis said. "Maybe we're wrong" in the attacks on the school spending, Ellis explained. He suggested they should take the form of an efficiency report and job evaluation. The fiscal control body took no action on the proposal.

Pollution Top Concern Of Aldermen

MENASHA — A survey of aldermanic opinion indicates they see pollution abatement and control problems among the most important facing the community. Seven of the 12 city aldermen responded to a priority questionnaire from the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), in which the Fox Cities' planning group listed over 30 areas of potential activity and asked officials which ones they felt were the most important. The priority survey, which COG sent out to all 15 member communities recently, is designed to determine where COG member communities want the urban planning agency to concentrate their activities. COG will meet to discuss the survey results next Wednesday in Oshkosh. Two aldermen listed water pollution abatement number one on their lists. Two others listed solid waste disposal which was in the top three on five lists. The other three aldermen listed federal grant application assistance, capital improvements programming and industrial development at the top of their lists. Mayor James Adams, who will consider the opinions of the aldermen and throw in some of his own, will prepare a written report for COG in time for next week's meeting. The mayor listed tax reform, storm drainage problems, solid waste disposal, air pollution and housing as the five areas where he would like to see COG concentrate its activities.

Vandenbroek Town Chairman George Kroes warned that he did not feel the budget had been cut enough and if suggestions kept coming to reinstate some of the deleted items, he definitely would vote against the budget, which he eventually did.

Some discussion, instigated by Ald. Lloyd Kloehn (2nd) on school busing was held, but 27 per cent for all other facets of school operation. He then gave figures indicating the large budget were Aldermen Gerrits, Jerry Klarer, Rogers, George Driesen and Richard Verhoeven. Kloehn asked school officials and they were joined by Little for high is located on the far south side, and state law requires that if busing is provided to one group within the city, it must be provided others who qualify under the mileage limitation rule.

Ald. Robert Vondracek (1st) felt the $78,000 cut was not enough, indicating the total school budget was up 20.7 per cent. He termed this "an injustice to the people based on present economic conditions." School Business Manager Thomas Nyles challenged Vondracek's figures, noting the actual school budget was up 17.3 per cent. Of this, he said, 9.8 per cent represents increases in school costs, but was told by new instructional costs due to added teachers and teacher raises, 4.8 per cent for increase for school operation in recent years was below the percentage for city and county budget increases.

Voting to approve the revised budget were Aldermen Gerrits, Jerry Klarer, Rogers, George Driesen and Richard Verhoeven. Little Chute Board of Education Adjusts School Lunch Regulations

LITTLE CHUTE — The board of education Tuesday revised lunch-carrying regulations for elementary school children.

A previous ruling allowed only those living more than one mile from the school to bring lunches. But due to crowded conditions, board members felt that the policy had to be revised.

The TRW ruling which takes into consideration the traffic safety problem, eliminated the one-mile limit regulation.

Students who live on Washington Street and west; those living on North Avenue or County Trunk OO and north; and those living on Lincoln Avenue, east of Buchanan Road, and on Sanatorium Road will be permitted to carry lunches.

for pulpwood, sawlogs, Christmas trees and all other commercial purposes.

"In Wisconsin, therefore, we can look forward to a perpetual forest — an ever-growing one. Advantages of this far-seeing program to our aesthetic, cultural and recreational lives are obvious," he said.

"A major significance of reforestation is its ultimate effect on our entire ecological system. A tree consumes large quantities of carbon dioxide. More importantly, researchers have provided that a high-yield, young forest is an important source of oxygen," Nelson said. "A million acres of such forest, for example, will produce enough oxygen for 18 million people."

Quality Improving "Thus, scientific forestry — pioneered and practiced by the paper industry — is a factor in improving the quality of our air," he claimed.

"Our dream is a vastly improved environment through technological developments, while sustaining a vigorous paper industry. And we don't think it's an impossible dream," Nelson said.

"During papermaking, some 99½ per cent of the pulp slurry which becomes paper is water. Obviously, if the same water could be reused in a completely closed system, the problem of effluents entering the river would be eliminated. Reuse of water has increased dramatically. Mills are now using it 3 to 10 times before discharge. But, technology is still being perfected as we work toward a wholly closed system," he added.

"Of the $5 million devoted to all capital improvements by the Wisconsin paper industry in 1969, 10 per cent went into stream improvement installations. This is basically an expense of doing business as assumed by our companies to abate pollution," Mead said.

"Wisconsin is the nation's leading papermaking state — based on number of employees (more than 45,000), capital investment value of product, and variety of papers produced. The state has 49 pulp and paper mills in 34 cities and towns, mostly along the Fox and Wisconsin rivers," the booklet states.

"Each company has its own particular problems. No common formula can solve them all," the brochure says. "But the Wisconsin paper industry does admit it has pollution problems, accepts its responsibility, and assumes a positive role to do its part."

Strike Producing Pocketbook Dent

DETROIT (AP) — The strike by the United Auto Workers against General Motors appears to have made its most noticeable and immediate dent in the pocketbooks of the corporate giant and the organization which represents its labor force.

But each day the world's largest manufacturing concern is shut down the strike takes an increasing toll on workers, auto dealers, companies that supply goods and services to GM and government treasuries that rely on the firm for tax revenues.

UAW and GM reached tentative agreement on a new national contract Wednesday, but the company is not expected to be turning out cars at its normal clip until Dec. 1 at the earliest.

During the strike which began Sept. 15, the UAW used up all its $120 million strike fund on weekly subsistence payments to about 394,000 union members.

GM lost $77 million for the third quarter, which included the first two weeks of the strike. This was GM's first quarterly loss since 1946, and it is expected to show more red ink in the fourth quarter.

Loss Widespread

Steel companies, railroads, trucking firms and airlines were among the industries hardest hit by the strike. State and local tax collectors also suffered. The strike became a political issue in Michigan, the state hardest hit by the shutdown.

Glenn S. Allen, Michigan's budget director, said the strike has cost the state about $25 million in reduced sales tax collections and about $25 million in increased welfare costs.

Jones Laughlin Steel Corp., which sells about 32 per cent of its output to auto firms, announced layoffs for 4,000 workers. . . . Kelsey-Hayes of Detroit, a major supplier of auto wheels, laid off 1,000 at its Detroit firm. . . . the F.J. Boutell Driveaway Co. of Flint, Mich., laid off 600, including 450 truck drivers. . . . The Grand Trunk Western Railroad furloughed 800 workers as auto shipping orders fell off. . . . Firestone Tire Co. laid off 1,500 or 10 per cent of its work force as the orders from Detroit fell. . . . and so it went.

GM spokesmen said the firm was losing about $90 million a day in sales during the strike, while workers lost $14 million daily in wages and the 39,000 firms which supply GM with parts lost about $40 million a day in sales.

GM, like the other auto firms, encountered some rough spots in auto sales in the first eight months of this year, a period in which sales trailed 9 per cent behind those of 1969, and the strike hit it just as it was getting up full steam for production of 1971 autos. GM's sales figures are now running 18 per cent behind a year ago.

The GM strike was handed a lot of the blame by the Nixon administration for the jump in job layoffs last month as the nation's unemployment rate pushed to its highest point in seven years.

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Company's North American operations, summed it up this way: "I would like to say things never looked better but I can't. The longer the GM strike goes on, the less confidence anyone has to buy any kind of car."

The UAW strike fund shows a $44 million balance but the auto union owes $50 million to General Motors. That means the strike fund actually is $6 million in the red.

The auto firm, by agreement with the UAW, has paid during the strike period multimillion-dollar health insurance premiums for the UAW workers. The UAW is scheduled to pay that money back to GM.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said recently with a grin, "We are pledged to pay that money and I don't think race, where Rep. William O. Cowger is pitted against Demo-

5 Major Elections Still in Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine days after the national elections, there are still five races undecided—an Indiana senator, a congressman in Kentucky and Oklahoma and Maine.

The results, which may take weeks to finalize, could give all the races to Democrats, if their current slim leads bear up.

In the House and Senate battles, Congress may have to make the final decision. Losers in a recount could challenge the results, thereby throwing the final choice to Congress as provided by the Constitution.

Incumbent Sen. Vance Hartke, a Democrat, has the lead over Republican Richard L. Roudebush for an Indiana seat in the Senate. Final, official lies are expected today for comparison with the unofficial lead given to Hartke of 4,562 votes. If he wins, the GOP will have gained only two Senate seats, giving the Democrats 54.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said recently with a grin, "We are pledged to pay that money and I don't think race, where Rep. William O. Cowger is pitted against Democrat Romano T. Mazzoli. Mazzoli's lead is a slim 210 in unofficial tallies. A canvass was expected to be finished today.

Cowger has already asked for a review of registration records in 23 precincts.

Oklahoma's first recount for a state-wide office is due for completion Saturday. Democrat David Hall has a 2,571 vote lead over incumbent Dewey Bartlett.

Maine Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, a Democrat, leads Republican Atty. Gen. James S. Erwin by 860 votes unofficially. Erwin has already asked for a recount to start Nov. 23 that could take five or six weeks—this despite the fact that an official count doesn't start until next week.

Absentee vote-counting begins today in Rhode Island, where the official scorecard has put incumbent Democratic Gov. Frank Licht out in front of his GOP challenger Herbert F. DeSimone by 2,142 votes in a recount.

Enemy Building Supply Capability

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has expanded its fuel storage capacity just above the demilitarized zone by about 1,500 per cent in preparation for heavy movement of trucks into Laos, says U.S. reconnaissance photographs and other Communist countries show the North Vietnamese have established fuel dumps near Haiphong, the North Vietnamese reportedly have been that can handle some 1.5 million gallons, compared with a 100,000 gallon-capacity eight months ago, according to the sources.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese are said to have marshalled about 5,000 trucks in the Haiphong area for use in the expected big dry season push to resupply their forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

According to recent estimates, the North Vietnamese have moved more than 120 tons of supplies a day into the Laos-border area since the start of last year, sources said.

American reconnaissance has noticed also the construction of a sizable amount of covered port of Hon Gai as an entry point for petroleum products.

Deep draft Soviet tankers, unable to use Haiphong because of persistent silt problems, are said to anchor at Hon Gai.

The North Vietnamese sources said, are building a petroleum products pipeline from Hon Gai to a new depot being built at Tieu Giao, some 12 miles to the west.

There, the North Vietnamese are expected to bury fuel tanks capable of handling up to 15,000 gallons.

The North Vietnamese have built an extensive pipeline to supplement the movement of fuel southward in 55-gallon drums.

Streams leading from North Vietnam into Laos and thence into Cambodia also figure importantly in the North Vietnamese supply movement. Experts estimated that about 40 tons a day in fuel and other supplies are floated into Laos in barrels and waterproof bags.

American intelligence authorities say there is ample evidence that the enemy has made early preparations, even during bad weather, inside Southern Laos plant gates when it was hit by the blast of an exploding storage tank.

Sheriff's officers said some 12 the enemy left some 40,000 men storage tanks at the firm near and 1,600 trucks operating as a the center of Hudson, were in logistics group in the Laos re- gion during the rainy season.

These boats, sources said, then move the supplies directly across the beach at places like Quang Khe, a trans-shipment point some 60 miles above the demilitarized zone.

Photographs showed barges, sampans crowded offshore or pulled up on the beach. Although the North Vietnamese have only partially rebuilt the big Haiphong petroleum storage complex destroyed in the bombing, they have moved to use the small coal

These boats, sources said, then move the supplies directly across the beach at places like Quang Khe, a trans-shipment point some 60 miles above the demilitarized zone.

Jennifer Dohrn, 25, said Wednesday in New York that her fugitive sister, Bernardine Dohrn, is in this country and not in Algeria. She also relayed a "message" from LSD advocate Timothy Leary to "turn on" and "keep up the bombings." (AP Wirephoto)

Wisconsin Also Feels Strike Pinch

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The tentative contract between the United Auto Workers and General Motors is "a damn good agreement," Harvey Kitzman, director of UAW Region 10, Wiscorsin, said Tuesday.

There was "big movement by the company" on three major issues—first year pay increase, retirement after 30 years service and removal of the ceiling on cost of living allowances, he said, predicting overwhelming ratification by the union's GM council.

Kitzman was reached by telephone in Detroit by the Milwaukee Sentinel. He is there to take part in the vote.

Other Wisconsin members on the council include Frank Crivello, president of UAW Local 438, Delco Electronics Division, Oak Creek, and Donald Bernstein, president of Local 95, Janesville Assembly plant.

Delco has achieved an at-the-plant agreement with the union, but management spokesmen in Janesville said an agreement there is far off.

and striped trousers. Podgorny, on the other side, took off his overcoat during the service and handed it to an aide because of the heat from the lights.

Alongside Nixon were Grand Duke Jean of Luxembourg, a band of black crepe around the arm of his military uniform, and Marshal Marian Spychalski of Poland, also in uniform. Nixon greeted both men and warmly clasped the hand of Israeli President Zalman Shazar two seats away.

African Presidents

African presidents, most of them from French-speaking nations De Gaulle had freed, filled 10 places in the dignitaries' section.

King Baudouin of Belgium and three of the Catholic Africans were the only heads of state to kneel during the ritual.

President Georges Pompidou of France, De Gaulle's successor after the general's resignation in April, 1969, sat apart from the others on a chair closer to the altar. Pompidou looked solemn and from time to time propped up his chin with his hand.

There were representatives of all major religions, French veterans' organizations, the Girl Scouts, the Paris police, De Gaulle's Companions of the Liberation from World War II, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Marlene Dietrich, Prime Ministers Indira Gandhi of India and Edward Heath of Britain, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and the Shah of Iran. Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, the bearded president of Cyprus, Archbishop Makarios, and Prime Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of Egypt.

Chinese Ambassador Communist China sent its ambassador in Paris; Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Vice Chairman Lin Biao sent wreaths.

Roger VanEperen, Darboy, at center, eighth district commander, was main speaker at the program Saturday evening at VFW Clubhouse. Before addressing the group he talked with Robert Johnson, post commander, and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Melchert. Mrs. Melchert is auxiliary president. (Post-Crescent Photos by Edward Deschler Jr.)

A tribute to Veterans Day and the men it honors was paid Saturday, when the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary met for a commemorative dinner dance at the VFW Club.

Seated at tables decorated in red, white and blue, men and women listened as Roger Van Eperen, Kaukauna, past eighth district commander, told of the role of the veteran in this changing world.

Also honored were Frank Koch and Mrs. Fred Peske for selling more poppies than any other member of the post and auxiliary. Presenting the awards were poppy drive chairmen, Walter Vandertie and Mrs. Oscar Van Ryzin.

Chairmen of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Van Ryzin.

Enjoying a Turn on the dance floor are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNamara and Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanHandel.

After a Dinner and program, those attending the tribute to veterans had time to relax and chat with friends. At left, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vandertie stop to greet Mr. and Mrs. Oscar VanRyzin who served as co-chairmen of the event.

Mrs. De Gaulle Acted as Any French Widow Would

By PAUL TREUTHARDT

PARIS (AP) — Yvonne Charlotte Anne - Marie de Gaulle for almost 50 years gave her husband selfless devotion, the prototype of a French housewife of the upper middle class.

When Charles de Gaulle died Monday night, his widow reacted as any French housewife would, not as the wife of a key figure in history.

Her thoughts were for her family first. She commanded the doctor and the priest who attended the dying man to keep silent, and she set about her task of personally informing her children and summoning them to Colombey les Deux Eglises.

Thus it was more than 10 hours before President Georges Pompidou was told of the death of his illustrious predecessor, and some 14 hours before the news reached France and the world.

Typical Action

The Paris press agreed today that this was typical of the woman all France called Tante Yvonne—Aunt Yvonne. That nickname, half affectionate, half scornful, sums her up: a devout Catholic, ultraconservative, her ample figure well but unimaginatively dressed, with no intellectual pretensions, devoted to her family and a shadow in the background of her husband's career.

The daughter of a biscuit manufacturer in the Channel town of Calais, Yvonne Vedroux was courted and wed by the lanky, unknown junior army officer Charles de Gaulle in six months from November 1920 to April 6, 1921. He was 10 years her senior.

De Gaulle was too proud to make use of her money to ease the difficult years of low army pay and a growing family. Yvonne learned the careful shopping and sewing tricks of a budget-conscious housewife which were to serve her in good stead in tightly rationed wartime England.

Strong Influence

Throughout her husband's rise to fame and his years in the highest office in the land, Mrs. De Gaulle remained in the background, detesting publicity, never granting an interview, avoiding photographers. Her task, as she saw it, was to make sure that the general's life ran with clockwork precision. But she wielded strong influence through subtle persuasion.

Her staunch Catholic principles were reported responsible for the ouster from the presidential staff of men who had been divorced or involved in scandal.

She was credited with being the force behind the clampdown on public morals that ended Paris as a capital of the pornography and tightened film censorship.

She was so little known to the public that she could go shopping from the Elysee Palace without attracting any attention.

After her husband's final retirement to Colombey, she often visited the village shops to cater to De Gaulle's gourmet tastes. She made sure, however, that he kept his appetite within bounds, just as she made him give up smoking 10 years ago.

Podiatry Auxiliary Plans Meeting in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE — The Wisconsin State Podiatry Society Women's Auxiliary will meet Dec. 12 at the Red Carpet Inn. A quarterly meeting, it is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. On the agenda is an outline of the activities and goals for the coming year which will be presented by Mrs. Thomas G. O'Halloran, Fox Point, president, and Mrs. Neil A. Patterson, Greendale, vice president and program co-ordinator. After the meeting, the women will join their husbands for a holiday dinner. One of the new president's goals is to have Wisconsin high schools and junior high schools become aware of podiatry as a career. Doctors of podiatric medicine are specialists in the care of the foot and are licensed in every state to treat the foot both medically and surgically, according to a career brochure. The skills of the podiatrist are in increasing demand because foot disorders are among the most widespread and neglected health problems affecting the people of this country and are a major cause of disability for 20 out of 1,000 Americans, according to a health survey by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. This field since its earliest days has offered equality of opportunity and professional status to women. Now, when the demand for podiatric services is outstripping the profession's ability to provide them, it is especially important for women to consider today's college level woman is well equipped for a career in podiatry and can be successfully combined with home-making and family-raising. To be accepted in this field, a candidate must have a minimum of two years of pre-podiatry medicine and then must complete a four-year course in podiatry.

Your Problems Solemn Face Not Always Look of Sadness

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS All of my life people have come up to me and said dumb things like, "Who are you mad at?" "Why don't you smile?" "Cheer up!" This morning I was waiting for the bus and a stranger walked up to me and said, "You look as if you've just lost your last friend." I was so annoyed I didn't even answer.

Unfortunately, I happen to have a face that doesn't smile easily. I've been aware of it since childhood. When I was a youngster the kids used to call me "Sour Puss." One day I decided to force myself to smile and it proved disastrous. I caught a glimpse of my reflection in a department store mirror and was horrified. I looked like the village idiot. That day I stopped forcing myself to smile.

So please, Ann, tell your readers not to embarrass people whose faces weren't made for smiling. It doesn't mean we are sad any more than a big grin means a person is happy. — Old Stoney trouble making friends. This girl is the bright spot of my whole world. My girl and I are very honest with each other. She told me when we started to go together several months ago that she thought she was in love with a boy last year and she lost her virginity. I can understand how a girl can make a mistake like that and I don't hold it against her. The problem is I love this girl more than I can express in words and I want to show my feelings for her in a complete, physical way. She says "nothing doing." I love her, Ann, and I'd even marry her if I had to. It makes me mad that she went to bed with a rat who was only messing around, and she refuses to go to bed with me — a guy who is really sincere. Will you help me? — Honest Abe.

Dear Abe: Not on your tinfoil, Buster. You must be a new reader. I'm working the other side of the street.

Can This Child-Geared Mom Find Freedom?

BY ERMA BOMBECK

NEW YORK: I stood on the corner of Seventh Avenue and 52nd Street and said to my husband, "You are looking at a woman who has been liberated."

"Put your arms down before someone puts a cigarette out in your palm," he said dryly.

"Really," I said, "Do you realize this is the first time in years we have been on a vacation without the children? No more dried eggs on the dinner plates. No car pools. No telephone. No eating at three in the afternoon because of ball practice. We are free! Stand up straight, dear, and don't slouch or your spine will grow that way. What shall we do first?"

"Let's look for a restaurant."

"Good idea. Take mother's hand before we cross the street. You never know when some crazy man will try to crash a light. Where was I? Oh yes, being free. You know, some women are so child-geared they can't forget they're mothers. This is sad."

"What about this place?"

"It looks all right, but just to be safe order cheese or peanut butter. You can't go wrong with cheese or peanut butter. The men's room is over there. I'll watch your coat. And don't forget to flume."

"Well, I'm back," said my husband. "Did you order?"

"Yes. Did you wash your hands?"

"Really now?"

"Here we are. Don't forget your napkin. And don't talk with food in your mouth. They filled your milk glass too full."

"You don't have to cut my sandwich for me," he said irritably. "I'm quite capable of cutting it myself."

"Habit," I grinned. "I'm a creature of habit. What was I talking about?"

"About being free of the children."

"Speaking of children, did I tell you what your son said when I did you kick me under the table? Now, what does Mama say about keeping your feet on the floor?"

"If God had meant for me to wipe my feet off on people. He'd have made them out of plastic," he said mechanically.

"Tight. As I was saying. We have a whole week to be free of little voices and sticky hands. Incidentally, I have some shopping to do for the kids that should take the better part of the week. I never knew liberation could be so much fun."

Body Language Tells Much About Personality

BY FRIEDA KAYE

NEW YORK — Actions do speak louder than words, according to Julius Fast, author of the current best-seller, "Body Language." Mr. Fast says anyone can interpret the hidden or unconscious meaning in the movement of someone else's eyes, hands, feet or arms.

With the right body language, a hostess can put shy guests at their ease by a light touch on the arm, and wives and mothers can transmit a message of love to their husbands and children. "Touch is a tremendous part of our lives and all too often you run into women who say 'I can't touch my children. I can't touch my husband.' I think this is the saddest thing of all," said the author.

Personality Expressed

He is quick to point out, however, that body language — called kinesics, or non-verbal communication — is not new. Among certain ethnic groups, the expressive use of the hands is an important element in communication. Also, body language is part of the actor's stock in trade. For example, a 20-year-old thespian can successfully portray an elderly man by the movement of his hands, face, body or even the way he shrugs. "This is body language," said Mr. Fast.

Many psychiatrists view body language as an expression of personality. The layman, however, can gain insight into his own body language to understand what movements convey resistance, acceptance, rejection or approval. Body language can be controlled — even changed. "You can walk into your boss' office and make him feel comfortable or uncomfortable," said Mr. Fast.

Now this awareness can also help alter one's personality, Mr. Fast explained. "If your personality changes, your body language changes. Now reasoning backward, if you change your body language, you can change your personality. You can have an effect on your personality by changing and tailoring your body language."

Eye Response

Although politicians can be coached in body language to improve their images or to enable them to project a greater aura of sincerity, the majority of people use body language unconsciously. This can range from the man straightening his tie as he greets a woman friend — a "courting gesture," according to Mr. Fast — to the gay Lotharios who can read a whole world of innuendoes in a woman's eyes.

Such a man can enter a crowded room and "automatically" seem to know which woman is for him," said the author. The method is fool-proof and is accomplished with a glance. Looking at each woman, he will hold her eyes as long as possible. "Most women will break the glance. But one or two won't. These are the women who are interested in him — whether sexually or not they don't know at this point. But they are certainly interested in him as a man."

Next, the Lothario zeroes in on the favored woman, and with further body language measures the woman's acceptance of him. "He can touch her hand as she lights a cigarette. He can gauge her acceptance by the way she lets the touch linger or whether she draws away from the touch or returns it," said Mr. Fast.

A Meaningful Instrument

The eyes are the most meaningful instrument for body language. Mr. Fast points out that, except for children playing a game, people seldom hold a stranger's glance for a long period of time. Normally, in a crowded bus or elevator the tendency is to blink or look away.

Mr. Fast has experimented with this and the reactions are sometimes "very strange," he said. Some register annoyance, anger or embarrassment. "But I also get some very pleasant reactions. I have discovered how basically friendly and outgoing people can be, even in as hostile a city as New York." All you need do for a friendly reaction, said Mr. Fast, "is speak the right body language."

Women Observe World Community Day

Approximately 80 Appleton Church Women will be joining with women in over 2,300 other communities across the country at 1:30 p.m. Friday in observance of World Community Day. The local group will meet at All Saints Episcopal Church. The event is being held in conjunction with International Education Year as designated by the United Nations' theme "Use a Key for Tomorrow." Continuing the theme, Mrs.

Kenneth Engelman will be the keynote speaker using as her topic, "A Key for Tomorrow — Education." Area women affiliated with World Community Day have taken as their community project providing adequate teachers, books and facilities to those groups not being reached by the educational system. Scholarships Offered Offerings received on World Community Day will be used to provide scholarships to women seeking journalistic training. Emphasis is being placed on Kenya Village Polytechnic which imparts special job skills to students who leave school early in their lives. Educational materials for new literates, especially in Latin America, will be distributed. Since 1942, World Community Day has been sponsored by Church Women United to emphasize corporate action for justice and peace. Church Women have worked together across racial, denominational and economic lines to meet human needs. Their belief is that education for all is not only a human right but a necessity for peace in tomorrow's world. Overwhelming Illiteracy The nation-wide group functions on the basis that in a world where automation is freeing man from the machine and giving him both greater potential and more leisure, it is incongruous that 65 per cent of the world's adults cannot read and 250 million children do not have the opportunity to attend school. The national organization operates on the premise that for the poor and powerless, education increases control over environment, power over the direction of one's life. Church Women are joining with other organizations to help improve their neighbor's chance for quality education. Church Women United's adult basic education program has brought hundreds of new readers into functional literacy. Its goal is that within the next five years, 80 miles of children's books will be produced in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

A smart fashion move. Those are the four biggest looks of the day. Take the crinkle patent strap. What a fancy bit 'a buckle, and that slant-sliced heel is sensational. Navy, tan or Black, $16. GOP Looks to Mitchell To Plan '72 Campaign

Attorney General Considered One Person Able to Rebuild Nixon's Battered Prestige

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Shortly after emerging from a rosy-hued White House post-mortem on the election, a top Republican strategist said out loud what many party professionals are thinking privately.

"Who is the President trying to convince," he said, "himself or us?"

That expresses the deepening concern over evidence that President Nixon believes his own propaganda — that the Republicans really did gain an "ideological" or "working" majority in the senate and that their huge losses in governorships resulted from purely local political factors.

This concern is a major reason for the SOS that land, the Republican National anguished party leaders are Chairman, also would like some sending to Atty. Gen. John answers and has scheduled a Mitchell, Mr. Nixon's political long working session with mentor and cabinet strong man, Mitchell at the justice department to take over the 1972 presidential campaign and take it over now.

No Part in Strategy
Their sense of urgency stems from the fact that tough, methodical John Mitchell had no major role in shaping the crazy-quilt 1970 campaign strategy (though he travelled and spoke for some Republican senate candidates). During the crucial weekend of Oct. 10-11, Mitchell was not at Key Biscayne when Mr. Nixon suddenly decided — without consulting the Republican National Committee or any other party leaders — to commit his prestige by campaigning in 22 states.

Had Mitchell been in the driver's seat, these party politicians believe, Mr. Nixon would never have damaged his credibility as he did this past autumn. Moreover, they feel that the immediate presence of Mitchell on the scene as 1972 campaign manager would protect Mr. Nixon from self-delusion, about both the 1970 results and 1972 prospects, fostered by the White House inner circle headed by H. R. (Bob) Haldeman.

In truth, Mitchell has been blueprinting 1972 advance plans in the back rooms at the justice department for weeks. But politicians would like some public assurances about when or whether he will take over on a full-time basis.

Rep. Rogers Morton of Maryland, who would want a meaningless job no more than Morton's performance in the 1970 campaign, complaining that he "spent a lot of time" campaigning for his own reelection on Maryland's eastern shore and was too soft on the Democrats. Such back-stage griping means the White House intends to run the 1972 campaign much as Lyndon Johnson's White House ran the 1964 campaign — with the National Committee a minor appendage.

If so, Morton could not be clubbed into staying on as national chairman. He has been told nothing but has heard all the White House rumors about Robert Finch, now a White House counsellor, taking his job. A new possibility is Rep. George Bush of Texas, one of the liberal leaders for two qualities sadly absent in lose a senate race last week the recent campaign: ruthlessness. Mitchell intimates now believe he will not quit as attorney general to run the campaign, particularly with his recent moves to strengthen the justice department. Robert Mardian, a hard-line, highly efficient administrators, has been named as head of internal security but also will move into policy-making on other issues, including school desegregation — thus freeing Mitchell for politics.

Whether he quits the justice department or not, Mitchell cannot take charge of the 1972 campaign too soon for party leaders chastened by Mr. Nixon's performance in 1970. Like Mitchell or not, even the party's brightest Republican stars to for two qualities sadly absent in lose a senate race last week the recent campaign: ruthless-

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS In 1921, the International Conference on Limitation of Armaments opened in Washington. Today is Thursday, Nov. 12. There are 49 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1927, Joseph Stalin became the undisputed dictator of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist party. In 1932, President Herbert Hoover invited President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt to confer with him on a request by British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to suspend wartime debt payments. In 1936, the bridge between Oakland and San Francisco, over San Francisco Bay, was opened to traffic. In 1948, a war crimes tribunal in Japan sentenced former Premier Hideki Tojo and six other Japanese war leaders to death. Ten years ago: A Discoverer satellite was launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California and on its 31st pass around the earth it released a capsule which was snared in the air by an Air Force plane. Five years ago: The U.N. Security Council approved a resolution condemning a declaration of independence by Rhodesia with him on a request by Britain and called on all members to withhold aid and recognition. One year ago: Three gunmen held up a Wells Fargo armored truck in New York and escaped with about $1,300,000 in Aqueduct race track receipts.

This newspaper is proud to continue the policy of making American flag kits available at nominal cost and as a convenience to our readers. We believe that the American flag should be displayed where possible and as often as practical — and most assuredly on national observances — and that such display is not necessarily a symbol of bigotry nor a cover up for the insincere patriot; indeed, we would deplore this kind of hypocrisy and desecration of our flag.

We are happy to announce that the suppliers from whom we receive the American flag kits have made it possible for The Post-Crescent to supply — free — a large, full-colored wall display of the United States which graphically shows the historic growth of our nation and its flag. The "maps" are being distributed to elementary and junior high school classrooms only.

Stop by our offices in Appleton, Neenah or Oshkosh for your flag or use the attached mailing form.

Schools desiring these display "maps" which have not received them are asked to contact the promotion department of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis. 54911.

Realities of Life in Capital Dim
Girls' Visions of Excitement

By ANN BLACKMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie graduated from a prestigious woman's college last year and set out for Washington to work for a well-known congressman. "Valuable experience," she thought.
Now, with a year of answering mail and cranking a mimeograph machine for $110 a week behind her, Julie is quitting.
"This work is neither creative nor challenging," says the 22-year-old secretary. "It's stultifying."
Every year Julie's by the hundred flock to Washington—bright, serious young girls with new college degrees in hand and visions of glamor and excitement in their eyes.
But, like Julie, many find themselves working at dull tasks in drab, crowded offices for very little money—frustration.
"These girls come to me with political science degrees and they think they have the world by the tail," says Mrs. Hazel Bergstrom, chief of the Capitol Hill Employment Center.
Not Prepared
"But the colleges don't prepare them to do anything. They come here thinking they're going to change policy decisions and find Prince Charming. Soon they're disenchanting and discouraged."
The problem, says Mrs. Bergstrom, is that congressmen and senators need foot soldiers, not staff officers.
According to another single working girl, "The government brochures paint a pretty picture, but when many girls get here, they find they're not paid enough to live or their jobs are not satisfying."
Still, says 25-year-old Hortense Mena, whose nickname is Hank, "Sometimes the only way to get a job is to start as a clerk or a secretary."
That's just what she did in 1967, going to work for Texas Democratic Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez, who represented her hometown district of San Antonio. Since then Miss Mena has started law school and has been promoted to Rep. Gonzalez's legislative assistant.
Broken Dreams
Still, her story is rare in a town where more dreams are broken than realized.
Not even Hazel Bergstrom, who's job is finding work for these eager young women, thinks the possible rewards are worth the chance.
"Definitely not," she snapped when asked if she would recommend a Washington job to her daughter.
"Working here on the Hill is a hard job," she went on. "There's no standardization of jobs, hours or salaries. The girls often work Saturdays and Sundays. They have no annual leave and no sick benefits. It's not glamorous by any stretch of the imagination."
Life apart from the working conditions of Capitol Hill doesn't always make a girl's existence in Washington easier. Salaries often barely climb above $6,000 a year, apartments are hard to find and are costly and, as in major cities everywhere, crime is of concern.
Then why do so many of the girls stay?
Not all find their work and life distasteful. "I'm here for the fun, fling-type experience you could never find in another city," says a secretary to a State Department official.
And to Julie, who found her first job intolerable, her non-working life makes Washington worthwhile.
"Life here is pleasant," she says. "I can ride my bike to work. I live in a house in Georgetown with some other girls and pick figs from my bedroom window. Life here isn't a hassle."
Then Julie, whose pretty face is framed by long dark hair, smiled. "I suppose you ought to mention my social life. It's the best I ever had."
But as typical as Julie's frustration over her work is, her pleasure with her social life seems out of the mainstream of many more girls' Washington existence.
For many, the long, hectic days in front of a typewriter are followed by long, lonely nights in front of a television set.
"I go to these Georgetown houses to pick up a date on a Saturday night," relates a 28-year-old bachelor, "and, inevitably, there are three or four of them with their hair in curlers watching 'The Newlywed Game' on the tube."
Romance With Married Man
For some young women all this can add up to an around-the-corner romance with a married man at the office. "I can understand becoming involved with married men you work with," one girl says. "You spend more time with these men than their wives do."
If loneliness and dull work don't always end in a motel with another woman's husband,

Underthings Need Special Attention
Undergarments and stockings need washing after each wearing. A swish through a basin of suds should be a part of the before-bed ritual for well-groomed girls. It takes but a few minutes to wash, rinse, blot in a towel and hang to dry.

band, they can lead to the singles bar circuit.

Although all the girls interviewed for this article found such bars distasteful—"It makes you feel kind of cheap and you hate to appear available"—they abound in Washington. The owner of five singles bars said, in fact, he has developed "well over a million dollar business."

There does appear to be a middle ground. Royce Ragland, a 26-year-old teacher from Chester, Ill., has never been to embassy dinners or diplomatic functions and she doesn't follow the Capitol Hill cocktail party circuit.

Neither does she frequent the singles bars.

Her social life is made up of small dinner parties for a handful of friends. She fixes the dinner and her boyfriend brings the wine and liquor.

"It's cheaper," Miss Ragland says, "than going out even if there were a lot of places to go."

THE ACES ON BRIDGE
by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

A question often asked is, "How good are women bridge players?"

Almost any answer to this is dangerous. I usually answer, "It depends upon the lady." Although this may not satisfy everyone's curiosity, it has enabled me to stay out of trouble.

One of our foremost women players is Terry Michaels of Washington, D.C. At a recent regional tournament, two Aces had the misfortune of defending today's hand against Terry.

Witness her play.

North was Israel Cohen also of Washington, D.C. His response of one spade to Terry's opening bid was standard and his raise to three no-trump showed confidence in Terry's dummy play. She was not to fail him!

Mike Lawrence's opening lead of the diamond five was won by Bobby Goldman's king. Goldman returned the diamond jack, covered by the queen, and taken by Lawrence's ace.

Another diamond cleared the suit and Terry won with her 10. (Note that it will do no good for Lawrence to duck the diamond ace. Four rounds of hearts will leave him without a discard.)

Terry could count four heart tricks, two clubs, one diamond and one spade. She needed either the spade finesse or a third club trick to make her contract.

She went after the club suit, intending to duck a club into the East hand. This would ensure the contract if clubs divided normally.

Terry led the club deuce to dummy. Lawrence, sensing

Terry's plan, played the club nine to prevent a duck to Goldman's hand.

When Terry played dummy's king it was now Goldman's turn to be alert. He played the club queen under the king. If he had not, Terry would have allowed him to hold the queen on the lead of the second club from dummy.

However, Terry was not to be denied. She led a low club from dummy and played the ace. When the club jack failed to appear, she played four rounds of hearts.

On the fourth heart, Lawrence had no safe discards. If he threw a good diamond, Terry would lead a club to establish her ninth trick. Lawrence had to choose between discarding the club jack or unguarding his spade king. Naturally, Lawrence chose to blank his spade king.

Although he did this in as careful a manner as possible, Terry played the ace of spades and queen of spades to make her contract.

How good are women players? It depends upon the lady.

Midi Poll Shows Lucy Voting No; Doris, Yes; Lana, Censored

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the midi a flop?
Some fashion experts have detected a distinct lack of enthusiasm on the part of the nation's women for the mid-calf skirt.
Yet many stylish women, including the trend-making Jet Set, have embraced the midi as something new and exciting.
What about the Hollywood stars? I asked 16 of the most stylish women of films and television what they think of the midi.

The survey is by no means complete. But it may indicate a trend. These are women who remain acutely aware of what styles look best on them, and they are able to finance whole new wardrobes. Yet 16 of the 16 expressed discontent with the midi.
Lucy Doesn't Like It
Here are their replies:
Lucille Ball: "I don't like the midi. Even if I did like it, I wouldn't wear it on my television show. I play a secretary and I couldn't afford to change my wardrobe to follow fashion. Besides, the mid would 'date' the episodes for future play."

Doris Day: "Variety is where it's at. I personally love the midi, but you should wear what you can afford—and enjoy it."
Dyan Cannon: "I adore them. I feel very costume in them, like I'm going to a party. And men seem to like the ones I wear. When they don't, I'll stop wearing them."
Nancy Wilson: "I think the midis make young girls look old and old girls look horrible."
Janet Leigh: "I am going to wear minis, pants or long dresses with one gaucho for the costume look. Most of the ladies in midis look like they are going to a costume party anyway."
Not Worth the Breath
Mitzi Gaynor: "Never have so many argued so much about so little. I'll stick with the mini."
Barbara Eden: "I chose the midi and pants suits for my wardrobe in 'The Feminist and the Fuzz'—a TV movie—so I guess that's the way I'm going."
Leslie Uggams: "The midi covers a multitude of sins—but I'm no sinner."

Eva Gabor: "I'm a conscientious objector to the stupid long look. I call it Instant Old Designers hate women. Why else would they devise a dress like the midi?"
Julie Sommars: "I like skirts one or two inches above the knee—but not real short minis which look chintzy and cheap. You have to be 5 feet 8 to look good in the midi. And over 60. Oh, I admit when you put on boots, hat, the whole midi costume, it looks kind of pretty. But you also end up looking like a Russian soldier."
Thinks It's Womanly
Mario Thomas: "There's always been an erotic zone in fashion; with the mini it was legs; with the Empire the bosom. Now with the midi it's the midriff, belts at the waist, etc. I think it's a romantic look, both sensual and elegant. Hopefully we've grown out of the nymphet-Lolita stage in fashion and can look like women."

Elizabeth Montgomery: "I don't like the midi look—it's frumpy and unflattering. Men don't like the midis, and men are going to put them down. Women who wear midis look like their clothes came from the attic."
June Lockhart: "I think they can be very attractive if worn as a complete costume, with all the proper accessories, including boots. However, the wearer should be careful that the length of the skirt comes at that part of the leg which is most attractive to her."
Lana Has Last Word
Natalie Wood: "The midi is dowdy, and I think it's outrageous because the manufacturers and designers are causing a great extravagance. It doesn't mean just getting a new dress, you have to get a 'costume' look. You either need boots or opaque stockings and shoes to match. Otherwise you're going to look like a squatted mushroom."

Famed Home Now Houses Arts, Crafts

OSHKOSH — The famed old E. Homer Fahnestock summer home is again in loving and appreciative hands, and there is a whole new life planned for it as a home, art gallery, museum and shoppers' haven.
New owners will call it "The Mansion" and for Mr. and Mrs. Mike Behrendt it is presently a "honeymoon cottage."
Recently married, the former Miss Elizabeth Drechsler, Oshkosh, and her husband, Mike Behrendt, Appleton, are spending their honeymoon in the week of restoring the handsome home and other rooms to a former beauty enhanced by updated color schemes.
They will live in some of The Mansion's more than 25 rooms, but the entire first floor will house a variety of shops, galleries, and museums arranged to highlight and preserve the original architecture and decor.
The Mansion has had a varied and interesting past. Its future almost surely will be as entertaining.
Now located on the busy corner of 1st and State 119 in the town of Oshkosh, it was built by the late Dr. Charles W. Orant, Oshkosh, in 1890.

NFL Teams Still in Dark Over Probe

Justice Department Mum; Speculation Beach Is Involved

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The National Football League is involved in a federal investigation, but can't explain why. And the federal authorities aren't talking.

"We honestly are in the dark," says an NFL spokesman in regards to a Federal Grand Jury investigation beginning Nov. 17 in Cleveland.

In Washington and Cleveland, spokesmen from the Justice Department refused comment.

The NFL acknowledged Wednesday it had been asked by federal authorities to surrender certain documents, but couldn't shed light on the wave of subpoenas to football teams.

All Involved "It is reasonable to assume that all 26 clubs will be served with papers—although some may not have them yet," he said. "We have been asked to submit certain documents but that is all we know about it."

Nineteen NFL clubs have reported having been served subpoenas to appear at hearings at various times. Among the latest to report the subpoenas Wednesday were the New York Jets, New York Giants, Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs.

Adding mystery was a report the affair stemmed from complaints by Walter Beach, former defensive back for the Cleveland Browns.

"Talk to my lawyer in New York," said Beach in New Haven, Conn., where he is a law student at Yale.

Beach's lawyer, Bob Dicks, was unavailable for comment.

Five officials of the Browns, including President Arthur Modell and some assistant coaches, will be among the first to testify. They're subpoenaed for Nov. 17.

Antonelli to Return As Pilot at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Johnny Antonelli will return again next year as manager of the Memphis Blues baseball team.

Antonelli ended a self-imposed retirement from baseball two years ago and guided the Blues to a Texas League divisional title last season.

Cadets' Miller Named FVCC Coach of Year

BY DICK KARBON

GREEN BAY — When Ron Miller came to Green Bay Premontre in 1967 he had quite a reputation to live up to.

In a year of freshman and two years of varsity high school football coaching in Indianapolis, lis, Ind., he had a 27-0 record and three championships under his belt.

Ron Miller

The Green Bay West and Indiana University graduate suffered his first coaching loss enroute to a 5-3 record in 1967, but better things were to come ... much better.

Historical Tidbits Miller had an 8-1 mark the next year and his Cadets shared the Fox Valley Catholic Conference championship with Menasha St. Mary and Appleton Xavier. Last year, his team was

Futility in Second Half

Despite Losses, Bears Have No Morale Problem on Team

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Chicago Bears, minus superstar Gale Sayers, have lost five of their last six games.

That, after a two-victory getaway, is not calculated to breed confidence or good cheer. Yet, despite their recent trauma, the Bruins remain unbowed, Bear publicity director Dan Desmond assures.

Played Well "Their morale is 100 per cent," Desmond informed the Mike & Pen Sports Club in the Beamont Motor Inn Wednesday, a point the Packers might well bear in mind while gearing for Sunday's exchange with the Monsters of the Midway in Lambeau Field.

"You couldn't ask for any better effort than our players put forth the last three weeks," Desmond said. "They've played all out in every one of those games, but won only one of the three — against Atlanta — which is discouraging."

The veteran publicist admits he is not sure how long the Bears' esprit de corps will remain at a high level under the circumstances.

"Coach Jim Dooley said the loss to San Francisco last Sunday was the most disappointing one of the season. He said, 'How can you keep the morale up? They played so well — what can you say to these guys?'"

Desmond attributes the Bears' 3-5 record, which presently has them one game to the rear of the Packers in the Central Division of the National Football

League's National Conference, to second half futility, lack of an effective running attack and an unfavorable imbalance in turnovers.

"In five of our eight games, we led at halftime — including both of our games with Detroit — and we lost all three of them," he reported. "We also were tied with San Diego at the half and lost that one."

"Our big problem is that we have no running game. We've gained only 590 yards rushing in eight games. Losing Sayers for the year was a blow, of course, but we had the same problem midway through the 1968 season and we led the league in rushing."

"I think we still would have been all right if we hadn't had further injuries. After Sayers went out, we had Ronnie Bull and Craig Baynham in there together. Then Baynham got hurt. Then we had Bull and Mike Hull, and Hull got hurt."

"Now the trouble is that our

Alcindor Dominates, But Team Effort Tops Celtics

Lew's 44, Defense Key 123-113 Win

By LARRY ELDRIDGE Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON (AP) — Lew Alcindor and his new sidekick Oscar Robertson are putting on quite a dazzling show for the Milwaukee Bucks these days, but don't get the idea they're a two-man offense.

"I'm interested in how the five men on the floor are working, not two," coach Larry Costello said when asked if he were pleased with the way his two superstars were playing together after Wednesday night's 123-113 victory over Boston.

"Team play is the may you win in this game," Costello added. "I think the Celtics demonstrated that for a long time. If I geared our offense around those two guys and the other three stood around, we'd lose. Psychologically or whatever it is, it's important for the other guys to feel they're part of the team too — and they are."

The streaking Bucks gave a good demonstration of this in recording their seventh straight victory Wednesday night before 15,203 fans—the largest crowd ever to watch a National Basketball Association game in Boston Garden.

Lew Dominates The 7-foot-1 Alcindor scored 44 points in a dominating all-around performance, while Robertson had 26 points and 10 assists in what Costello called "his best game for us," but they had plenty of help.

Bob Boozer came off the bench to collect 18 points with some hot outside shooting, in clutch spots. Bob Dandridge scored 16 points while doubling as one of Big Lew's primary feeders, and several others also did their parts.

A key juncture came midway in the third period. The Celtics, after a 58-all first half standoff, started double-teaming Alcindor and got hot themselves at the same time to open a 75-65 advantage. The Bucks, unruffled, moved the ball around for the good shot and stormed right back on a 13-2 spree to regain the lead at 78-77 with Big Lew contributing just one free throw.

Look for Lew "We always look for Lew in the pivot and get the ball to him if we can," Costello said. "We'd be crazy if we didn't. But if they double up on him, we just try to find the open man. This is not a Lew Alcindor offense."

Costello agreed with the general opinion that Alcindor is even better than in his fabulous rookie season of 1969-70, and

Kaukauna Faces Pennings

Prep Cage Season In Fox Cities Gets Start on Weekend

The high school basketball season opens on only scattered Fox Cities area fronts this weekend, but the pairings include a number of high-interest non-conference encounters.

Friday night, Hortonville, of the East Central Conference, entertains Seymour, of the Bay Conference; Marion, of the Central Wisconsin, plays host to Weyauwega, of the ECC; Manawa, of the CWC, welcomes Winneconne, of the ECC; and Chilton, of the Packerland, visits Mt. Calvary St. Lawrence Seminary, of the Bay Lakes circuit.

Saturday night, Kaukauna, of the Fox Valley Association, plays host to De Pere Pennings, of the Fox Valley Catholic Conference; Clintonville, of the FCC; and Oshkosh, of the FVA, travels to Antigo, of the Wisconsin Valley.

Kaukauna's Ghosts will put a good-shooting but relatively short starting alignment on the court against Pennings' 1969-70 FVCC champions. Kaukauna will likely start lettermen Al Borchardt, Karl Mueller, Leon Franzke, Mark Kobin and George Behnke. Mueller is the tallest of that group, at 6-1.

Albers Back The Squires have one letterman, 6-3 Chuck Albers, back from their topnotch unit of 1969-70. Other Pennings lettermen are 6-3 Remy Stephenson, 6-2 Rick Reis, 6-0 "Butch" Thompson and 5-11 Paul Van Dyke.

New London has three starters back from the team which posted a 3-16 record last season. They are 6-3 Cal Handschke, 5-9 Roger Steingraber and 5-9 Bill Staern. Other probable starters in the opener will be 6-3 Gary Wendt and 6-1 Dave Teschke.

As Clintonville renews its rivalry with New London, which formerly played in the same conference (Mid-Eastern) as the Trunkers, it will have a new-look lineup. The Clints lost the top 10 players from their 17-7 team of last season. The four returning lettermen are 5-11 Randy Nelson, 5-9 Craig LeBeau, 6-1½ Mark Smith and 6-1 John Jartz.

They'll vie for starting spots with such prospects as Mark Heideman, Mike Mahnke, Cal Kasper, Pat Rogers and Mike Jahnke.

Hortonville, which achieved a 12-6 record last season, has all of its top players back. The starters will be chosen from these seven lettermen: 6-0 Rob-in Pankow, 5-7 Mark Everts, 5-9 Tom Dorn, 6-1 Roger Warning, 6-3 Al Kaddatz, 6-0 John Kruehl and 5-11 Kevin Schulz.

Seymour, which was 7-13, over-all last season, will send an all-letterman starting lineup against the Polar Bears. Indian starters are 6-2 Dale Marsh, 6-0 Pete Hartlaben, 6-0 Jim Wickesberg, 5-9 Glen Quast and 5-8 Mark Demerath.

PLATTEVILLE — New re Daley said commercial fisher- strictions on commercial fishing men were much more receptive in Lake Michigan and Green to the permit plan than the zone Bay have been approved by the system employed by Michigan Natural Resources Board. Gill netting by permit provides Changes in the commercial controls deemed necessary by fishing code, recommended by the DNR not only to satisfy all the DNR following a public interests involved in the Lake hearing Oct. 27 at Green Bay, Michigan fishery, he reported, require an individual permit for but to literally keep the Wiscon- gill net and set hook fishing sin commercial fisherman in inside 20 fathoms (120 feet) in business The DNR must know Lake Michigan and the upper what is going on and at the bay same time have controls to expand or restrict commercial operations to meet immediate needs, he stated.

A permit will also be required to employ gill nets with a mean greater than 2 1/4 inches or set hooks in Lake Michigan and the entire bay.

The revisions are designed to protect brown, rainbow and brook trout. The DNR noted that some commercial fisher- men setting for perch intercepted these species which had to be released or, if killed, turned over to the state.

Uniform specifications for net buoys and staffs were also prescribed.

Netting Periods
With this type of perch fishing or chub fishing conducted under permit, the DNR can close some of the netting periods when trout are in an area in large numbers, it was noted by Russell Daley, northeast area fisheries supervisor.

Cadets Keep Game Plan

Premontre Won't Change

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—A pre-season scrimmage with Oshkosh High started the year off for Green Bay Premontre. The Cadets hope to end the season on the same victorious note this Saturday when they take on the La Crosse Aquinas Bugolds in the second annual Wisconsin Independent Schools Athletic Association state football championship game.

The Cadets have posted a 10-0 record and are ranked No. 1 in the state in The Associated Press' high school football poll. Aquinas, also 10-0 for the season, is rated No. 3.

"From the time Oshkosh was ranked No. 1, our kids knew that we were No. 1," said Premontre Coach Ron Miller. "We had a two-hour scrimmage with Oshkosh before the season started and we handled them pretty easily."

When told Aquinas finished third, three points behind Schofield, Miller was disappointed.

"We were hoping they would be ranked No. 2," the Cadet mentor said.

5 Big Reasons
Although both teams are strong both offensively and defensively, Aquinas primarily is considered an offensive team while Premontre has stressed defense.

Badger Harriers Eye First Division Finish

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin cross country squad will seek a first division berth in the Big Ten conference meet at East Lansing, Mich., Saturday.

For Premontre, the game plan Saturday is the same one that has given them a perfect record so far son, will be at near peak strength. Only John Cordes, Duluth, Minn., is a questionable starter.

"There's no sense in changing now," Miller said.

Fort Marcy Winner of International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Paul Mellon's Fort Marcy held off Miss Dan II in the stretch Wednesday and won the $150,000 Washington D.C. International for the United States and became a thoroughbred racing's 10th millionaire.

The victory for Fort Marcy was the ninth for the United States in 19 International runnings and the first since Fort Marcy won it in 1967. The 6-year-old gelding finished third in the 1 1/2 mile turf race in 1968.

The $100,000 first prize boosted Fort Marcy's career earnings to $1,043,230 making him the eighth top money winner in racing history.

Fort Marcy, ridden by Jorge Velasquez, who came within one minute of not being allowed to ride, got home a length in front of Miss Dan II, with longshot Bacuco of Italy another five lengths back and a nose in front of Howard B. Keck's Fiddle Isle, the other U.S. representative.

Out in the boondocks. Miles from nowhere.

And a Blue Norther was rolling in. And it was getting dark.

And beginning to rain. And getting very cold. And the car wouldn't start.

How old was the battery? I didn't remember. Did I give it a winter check-up? No.

Or pay attention to the warning of the first recharge? No.

Where's the phone? About five miles back. Raining harder. Getting colder. Very dark.

ReliAride 6000. I remembered an ad. 12 volt battery. I meant to see about it. Forgot. Had a special polypropylene case with thin narrow walls to run cooler. Last longer.

Sleet. About four and a half miles to go. They said it had more power for cold starts. And the air conditioner and tape deck I added. And they guaranteed it would cost less than two cents a day.

Still four miles to go.

Charles de Gaulle

There are a great many words that can and will be used to describe Charles de Gaulle. He was arrogant, remote, inflexible, proud and cared little for the opinions of those whom he considered lesser men which apparently included most people.

But Monsieur de Gaulle believed fervently in the honor of his country. His entire life appeared to be lived for the purpose of upholding that honor sometimes against tremendous odds.

He refused to go along with the Vichy government at a time when the Nazis seemed to be unbeatable. He came back triumphantly from the leader of a government in exile. Later he met political defeat at an age when a comeback seemed improbable. But he came back. He recognized the hard and distasteful fact that France could not hold on to Algeria any longer and he held out against his old friends in the military and insisted that Algeria be given independence.

He resented what he considered the trend toward making France into the American mold; he wanted France to be French. He vetoed Britain's entrance into the European Economic Community because it might dilute French leadership in that organization. He went it alone to develop a nuclear bomb despite world-wide disapproval. He withdrew virtually from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization because he thought France could deal better with the Communist threat outside rather than in NATO.

He managed to reform the French constitution not only to give the President more power but to help do away with the myriad of splinter party influence. He finally fell from power most likely because he became too old to understand the resentments of the young especially but of the economically hard-pressed French workers and peasants. Many younger men have failed to do the same in many other nations.

If Charles de Gaulle seemed to believe, like an earlier French leader that "apres moi, le deluge," he made a human mistake. Charles de Gaulle was not only French, but almost France itself, temperamental, proud, charming, intransigent. Somehow, with his passing, France and the West have been diminished.

The White-Tail as a Resource

In at least a quarter of a million Wisconsin households these days men and their sons and many women are anxiously awaiting mid-November when they will again pour into the woodlands of Wisconsin in pursuit of the white-tailed deer which has been a favorite hunting target here since primeval times.

Wisconsin is rich in wildlife resources. But the point is not likely to be seriously disputed that the deer is the single most valuable of its native species, considering its powerful appeal to the outdoors fraternity, its demonstrated attractions to the non-shooting wildlife lover, including tens of thousands of our vacationing summer visitors, and its production of tasty venison for the larder. It has also been the source of some of the most hotly contested issues in Wisconsin politics over the last generation, as the concept of planned, scientific deer management policies were introduced and gradually took hold as experience convinced the most hard-headed skeptics that the new breed of trained wild life managers knew what they were doing.

Deer is now managed as a crop of the land, with rules and policies based on the demonstrated thesis that it prospers and survives and reproduces according to the food producing capacity of the range of the species—which is now all of Wisconsin. Some deer are found in all Wisconsin counties, including the most highly urbanized areas where they are among the delights of native and visiting sight-seers. Even as are our domesticated animals in this state with its intensive development of livestock farming, the deer have a direct relationship, with respect to their numbers and their health, to their forest range which is their equivalent to the corn crop that feeds our hogs and our pastures and alfalfa fields that sustain our magnificent dairy herds.

The pioneers of the old conservation department, notably including the late Ernest F. Swift, who introduced to a hostile Wisconsin public the idea of deer herd control through selective hunting practices, have been richly vindicated in the space of a few decades. There are today more deer in this state, considering area of primary deer range, than in any state of the country, and far more than managed to live on the Wisconsin land as remembered by great-grandfather in his boasting about the vastness of the deer herds in his youth.

The current management policy statement of the state Department of Natural Resources, couched in deliberately cautious terms because there remains a reservoir of skepticism among the older members of the big game hunting fraternity, asserts the objective of a wintering herd of about 500,000 animals which will sustain an annual harvest of healthy animals of 75,000 to 100,000.

The DNR this fall will license approximately half a million deer hunters, an army that would have been inconceivable a short two generations ago. It will infuse welcome dollars into hundreds of hamlets and small cities throughout central and upper Wisconsin. All things considered, the legislature made an appropriate decision some years ago when it wrote into our statutes the designation of the white-tail as Wisconsin's "official wildlife animal."

Looking Backward

New Stave Factory in Operation

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Nov. 24, 1870.

Last Wednesday another shrill whistle of industry sounded from the northern extremity of our city and gave evidence that the combined energies of the firm Parish, Webb & Willy already had commenced to be realized.

Upon making towards the welcome sound we beheld a handsome new building, which the above firm has erected for the purpose of carrying on the business of manufacturing tight stave stock. The proprietors have selected an excellent location for their factory; the building is surrounded by a commodious yard that will accommodate a large amount of raw material and manufactured stock.

Their new engine was placed in running order for the first time last Tuesday. It was manufactured at the works of P. W. Gates & Co., of Chicago, and is a model of perfection in all its parts. There are two monstrous boilers connected with it, each of which is 42 inches in diameter and 22 feet in length. The engine is estimated at 40 horse power, which is deemed sufficient to turn the machinery connected with such an establishment.

The smoke stack is 65 feet in height, and is erected at quite a distance from the factory so as to lessen the danger of fire, which is too often disregarded. This new firm has the confidence of the people, and possesses all the energy and enterprise which is necessary to build up a flourishing and large business in Appleton.

This Factory will create a new market for the farmers of this County to dispose of their surplus timber, and we understand that the proprietors are ready to begin purchasing a large stock of white oak stave bolts.

Parties Will Need New Scenario For '72 Presidential Election

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There is a way of asking a question which loads the dice as far as answers are concerned. If, for example, one inquires "What is the meaning of the 1970 elections?", he assumes that there is a meaning, that some cogent generalization will provide symmetry to events in 50 states. However, the more one looks at the returns, the more apparent it becomes that there were no uniform national tides. Mr. Nixon can dabble in historical statistics and argue — correctly — that the failure of the Democrats to gain significantly in the house and maintain their senate strength was in itself a GOP triumph.

Yet, the Democrats control the house and senate and picked up a lot of governors; and nothing bores the sovereign electorate quite so much as an argument about statistics — it is about as lively as watching the grass grow. So that's a non-starter. As far as the issue of violence is concerned, I have been unable to find any candidate who favored it so it is understandably difficult to make an empirical study of its impact. The economic question hit hard in some states, not in others. Personalities obviously played a vital role in many races. In short, the voters flatly rejected any national programming, split their tickets in an unprecedented fashion, and left the columnists to figure out their "real motives."

Need New Scenario
But if no national patterns emerged, the election did provide some interesting things to meditate on in anticipation of the presidential election of 1972. One of the demands of American politics is a new scenario — you just can't stage the same act twice and get away with it. Adlai Stevenson was a novelty in 1952, but in 1956, when he ran with the same script, he was a bore. Now President Nixon is faced with the problem of establishing a new and distinctive posture for 1972, and it can't be the "let's take off the gloves" with radical extremists stance. That show is closed. Indeed, I discovered talking to some of my blue collar friends that even the San Jose incident left them unmoved — as one put it, "they are always throwing rocks at Nixon." He was not sympathizing with the rock-throwers — he just recalled seeing the sequence before.

While the Republicans are off to the drawing board, the Democrats seem to have acquired both some collective sense and a towering candidate. As the election approached, less and less was heard of the war in Vietnam (or, to use the cliché, the "obscene and unnecessary war") and the results of a referendum in Massachusetts indicate the wisdom of this silence. The voters were offered 3 options: 1) military victory; 2) phased withdrawal along the lines of administration policy; and 3) immediate withdrawal. With almost all precincts reported, Option 1 got 14 per cent, Option 2, 53 per cent, and Option 3, 33 per cent. To put it differently, 67 per cent took a position in support of, or harder than that of President Nixon.

Since it is standard form in some papers to refer to Massachusetts as "the most dovish state in the Union," it appears that the definition of "doves" needs some reworking. True, Father Robert Drinan, the Jesuit anti-war militant, got elected, but it was a three-way split with the winner getting about 40 per cent of the vote. If Drinan's voice is the voice of Massachusetts, logic demands that James Buckley be accepted as the model New Yorker.

The Democrats, in other words, returned from their trip to political Disneyland which began in 1967-68. And perhaps most important of all, Senator Edmund Muskie — by a superb pre-emptive strike — surfaced as the spokesman for the disorganized party. Muskie's 15-minute speech, carried on all three networks on election eve as a reply to tapes of President Nixon's frenetic performance in Phoenix, was just right. He completely avoided the shrewish self-pity displayed by other Democratic spokesmen. He didn't holler "foul" once. Instead, appreciating the American people's respect for over-dogs, he sounded like a president. It has been some time since a Democrat sounded like a president — all over the country listless, battle weary Democrats brightened up, cheered by the prospect that 1972 could be a real horse race.

Wisconsin Report

Warren Emerges as Nominal Leader of State Republicans

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A favorite phrase of political commentators that has been abused for so long that it has approached cliché status is "titular leader."

Whatever the term means or usage has given it in national politics — which is not altogether certain — there are no clear definitions in this state.

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren, a principal state officer who managed to remain afloat after the Democratic avalanche of Nov. 3, is now being described in some quarters as "titular leader" of the Wisconsin Republican party. What is meant, and is accurate enough, is that he now stands as the most plausible personality around whom his demoralized party may rally when it picks itself up after its traumatic reversal in preparation for the distant day four years hence when the Republicans will have another chance to compete for control of the statehouse.

Perhaps it is an exercise in pedantry, but the constitutional fathers regarded the office of secretary of state as important enough to put it third in the line of succession for the governorship. Indeed, Secretary Robert C. Zimmerman is acting as governor of Wisconsin as these lines are written because both Gov. Knowles and Lt. Gov. Olson are out of the state.

Zimmerman is not likely to entertain the idea of running for governor at the age of 64. Nor would he do so if he were 20 years younger. His ambition never rose above the comparatively modest office that he has held so long and in which he has been happy.

But there are other Republicans of rank and wide acquaintance surviving the disaster of "Black Tuesday," as their friends are beginning to call it.

The most successful of the Republican congressional candidates this fall was youthful, intelligent, and demonstrably popular William Steiger of the 6th District. In spite of the strong wave of Democratic sentiment, his opponent scarcely laid a glove on him, as he might put it.

Strictly Personal

Psychiatrists Needed More Than Doctors

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It's only an illusion to imagine that we have a shortage of physicians — what we have is a frightful shortage of psychiatrists, for more than half the patients are taking up their physicians' time with complaints that properly can be attended to only by a psychiatrist.

A "middle-of-the-roader" is someone whose interests don't happen to be threatened at this particular time.

Many people who like to consider themselves "democratic" do so in order to look up and say, "I am as good as you are," but many fewer do so in order to look down and say, "You are as good as I am," (in Theodore Parker's fine formulation of what "democratic" should really mean.)

Out for the 10 p.m. walk with the other dog owners, I recalled Karl Capek's wry remark: "If dogs could talk, perhaps we'd find it just as hard to get along with them as we do with people."

The poor who are unhappy are consoled by observing the unhappiness of many of the rich; but the rich who are unhappy are bereft of even that meager consolation.

Most men who want to "reform" something are content to stand above it and pull, rather than get underneath it and lift.

Watching a young couple gyrate on the dance floor a good two feet apart, I reflected that the disappearance of old-time "close" dancing is a loss in more ways than one, and remembered Christopher Morley's comment that "Dancing is wonderful training for girls — it's the first way they learn to guess what a man is going to do before he does it."

The trouble with revolutions, of all directions, is that they merely shift and concentrate power, they don't disperse it; for the only revolution worth having is one that disperses power to the broadest possible basis, which Marxism honors in theory but totally violates in practice.

When people worship, they generally worship the God of religion rather than the Lord of creation (Who are often competing deities).

Speaking of war, it was H. G. Wells who coined the infamously popular phrase, "The war to end war," as a way of drumming up enthusiasm for World War One — and his expressed sense of guilt for this may have been a factor in driving him insane in his last years.

Miller knows what that combination means. It brought him three letters in football at Indiana. He was a starting center in his sophomore year and then moved to offensive and defensive end.

"We played both ways then," he jokingly recalls.

Miller's kicking ability also brought him a fair amount of notice during his college days. He was signed by the Philadel- phia Eagles as a kicker in 1960 but was later cut when great- booter Bobby Walston cancelled retirement and led the Eagles to a National Football League championship, including a 17-13 win over the Green Bay Pack- ers for the NFL crown.

The physical education major packed his bags and moved on to the Canadian Football League's Hamilton Tigercats. He played a year and a half at linebacker, end and kicker before a knee injury ended his professional career.

Miller went back to Indiana University for graduate work in 1962 and that is when he got his first taste of coaching as an assistant freshman coach. During his three years there, he also doubled as a kicker for the Indianapolis Warriors in the Con- tional Football League.

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Just what's going on in the National Hockey League's East Division?

Here are the Vancouver Canucks, an expansion team, tossed together by the leftovers of the other 12 established clubs and destined, of course, for the bottom of the standings, solidly entrenched in fourth place.

What's going on is the Canucks' total domination of the poor Toronto Maple Leafs, who, like Detroit and Buffalo, trail Vancouver in the East standings.

Vancouver is 2-8-2 against the rest of the NHL and an impressive 3-0 against Toronto. The third straight victory came Wednesday night when the Canucks bunched three third-period goals to beat the Leafs 4-2.

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday, Pittsburgh rallied for a 3-3 tie against New York. Chicago battered Philadelphia 7-1, Minnesota turned back Los Angeles 3-1 and California blanked Montreal 2-0.

Traded Goals

Vancouver's Ray Cullen and Paul Henderson of the Leafs traded second-period goals and then the Canucks took control with third period goals 87 seconds apart by Rosaire Paiement and Barry Wilkins. Cullen later added an insurance goal.

In addition to their three regular season victories over Toronto, the Canucks also beat the Leafs in a preseason game. The three losses have kept the Leafs mired near the bottom of the East standings with six points compared to the 14 accumulated by the Canucks.

Vancouver is a mere six points away from first-place Boston.

Pittsburgh came from behind with third-period goals by Jean Pronovost and Wally Boyer to tie the Rangers.

Earlier, Nick Harbaruk had scored for the Penguins and Vic Hadfield, Dave Balon and Ted Irvine for New York.

Hull Brothers Score

The Hull brothers, Bobby and Dennis, scored two goals apiece, to lead Chicago past Philadelphia. The victory moved the Hawks four points in front of St. Louis and Philadelphia in the West standings.

Rookie Jude Drouin slapped in Minnesota's first power-play goal of the season and J.P. Parise clicked for two tallies as the North Stars moved into a fourth-place tie with Los Angeles in the West. Gord Labossiere averted a Kings' shutout.

California won its fourth straight game at the expense of Montreal behind Garv Smith's shutout goal tending. Gary Jarrett and Ernie Hicke produced the Golden Seals' goals in the first period.

Joe Hammen Has Leading Counts In Senior Loop

KIMBERLY — Joe Hammen pounded a 609 series, including handicap, to lead the Kimberly-Little Chute Senior Citizens Bowling League at Jerry's Lanes.

Hammen had scores of 204, 209 and 196. Joe Gossens was next in line with a 594 series which included games of 199 and 219.

Other top men's scores included Leo Caron 201-202-568, Joe Bourreasa 556, Pete Ver Voorz 204-551 and Len Goffard 550.

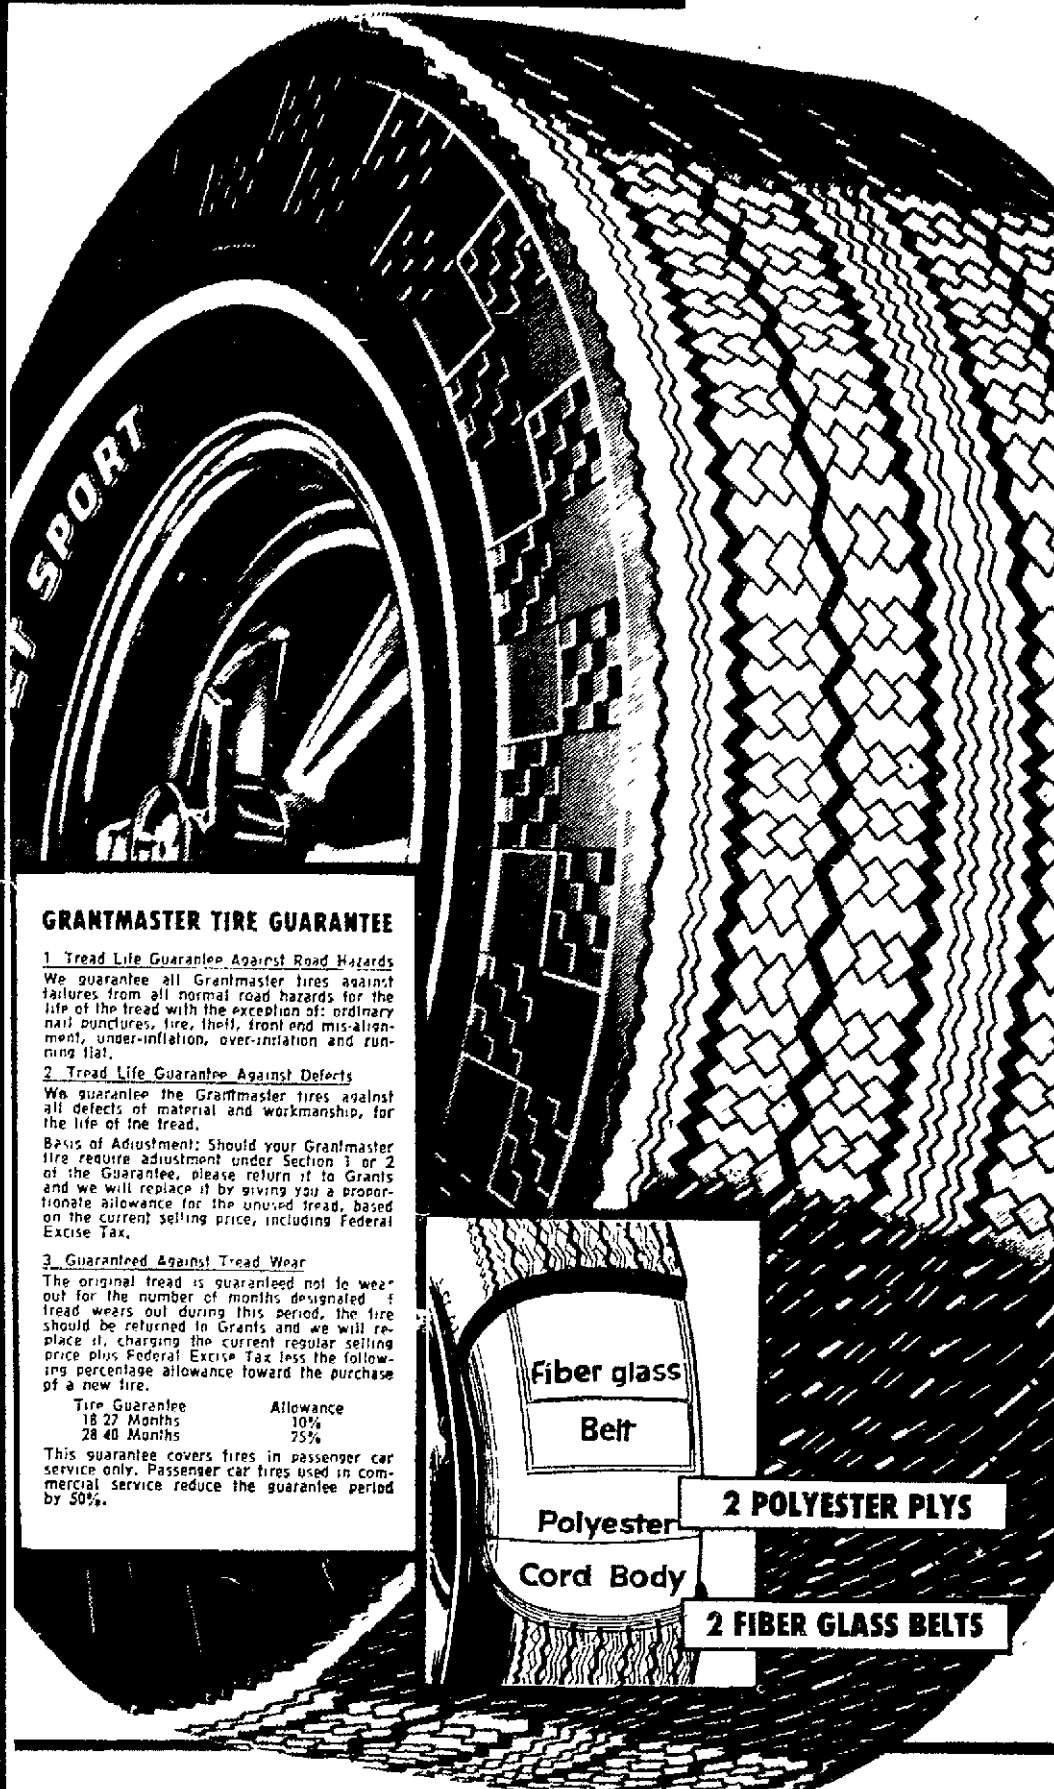

For the women, Ada Bolwerk took individual honors with a 580 series on games of 207, 196 and 177. Other leading scores included Ann Hopfensperger 191-217-563, Angie Wildenberg 185-181-545, Pats Ebbens 189-541 and Carl Van Asten 193-196-532.

Poitier Will Share Salary With College

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Movie actor Sidney Poitier, a trustee of needy Virginia Union University, has agreed to give the school 5 per cent of his net on his next two films.

Announcing this Tuesday, Al- lux B. James, president of pre- dominantly Negro Virginia Union, said it was not known how much money would be involved. The university has been operating at a deficit this year.

Black Rhino Documentary Fine Viewing

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — What may be the finest animal documentary to show up on television is tonight's Kifaru—The Black Rhinoceros. Irwin Rosten, of MGM's documentary department, spent two months last summer in Tanzania and Kenya, following the work of a Canadian zoologist named John Goddard.

He was doing a study on the black rhinoceros and Rosten and a brilliant cameraman, Erik Daarstad, snooped as he did his job. Some shots here are truly spectacular, such as one near the end when a rhino charges Goddard's Land Rover — and stops just one foot from the camera. It was a remote camera, operated from inside the truck, and Rosten said he had hoped it would hit it, but this is close enough.

There are some cheerful shots of Goddard's family — his lovely wife and two small daughters — but mostly it's the animals' film. You'll learn how to tell one rhino from another, why tranquilizing animals can be dangerous and watch as a small girl removes a tooth from a rhino's jaw — a skeleton, fortunately. Everybody should watch this one.

The Post-Crescent D 6

it was planned. They were going to have three days with the Snowdens at Windsor Castle, and go on from there, but the new bridegroom would have no part of such ostentation. He opts for a secluded lake and gets away with it — and no secret service around, either.

9-10 Channel 5 — Zero Mostel fans, front and center. He's on "The Dean Martin Show" this week, and he sings "If I Were a Rich Man" (from "Fiddler On the Roof") so what more do you want? Actually, you get more — you get Tony Bennett and Gloria Loring and even Kay Medford, who stops by to play Ken Lane's mother.

Kenneth Kip Tracy, a 66-year-old accountant, entered the guilty plea to one count of grand theft in Municipal Court Tuesday. He also was charged with another count of grand theft for $9,465. The second charge will be disposed of at his sentencing Dec. 1, officials said.

Calumet Corp. to Move to Algoma

DUNDAS — Calumet Corp. four-year-old welding and fabrication shop, has arranged to purchase a vacant factory building in Algoma and will move its operation there "within several months," Robert Smith, general manager, said today.

The company has agreed to purchase the old plant of Badger Northland, Inc., Kaukauna. Badger Northland closed its Algoma plant last year in a consolidation and efficiency move.

Smith said that the deal should be completed about Dec. 1. The firm will maintain no manufacturing in Dundas, he said.

The approximately 50 employees, mostly skilled and semi-skilled workers, will be offered jobs at the new plant, he said.

The Algoma plant will provide

Wyocena Bank Robbed Today

WYOCENA, Wis. (AP) — A 5-foot-7 man, wearing a ski mask and brandishing a pistol, robbed the Wyocena State Bank of an undetermined amount of money early today.

Witnesses said the man escaped in a late model white Oldsmobile with no hubcaps or license plates. No one was injured.

All available Columbia County officers were called to the scene, about 10 miles from Portage.

Menasha Girl Found Slain In Milwaukee

Suzanne Srubas, 18, Was Strangled In New Apartment

MILWAUKEE — Police are investigating the strangulation murder of an 18-year-old girl who was found dead Wednesday in the east side apartment she and her roommate had rented Oct. 8.

Officials said that the nude body of Miss Suzanne C. Srubas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Srubas, 419 Naymut St., Menasha, was found shortly before 5 p.m. sprawled across her bed. Officials originally said she had been sexually assaulted but today Leo Woelnel, inspector of detectives for the Milwaukee police department, said there is some question about this.

The victim's roommate, Miss Donna O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon O'Connell, 711 Nicolet St., Neenah, and Miss O'Connell's boy friend, Kenneth Smith, 20, Milwaukee, had returned to the apartment and found the door locked, police said. When they received no response to the buzzer and knocking, Smith crawled through the living room window of the first floor apartment and opened the door for Miss O'Connell.

Bruises on Body
Miss O'Connell discovered the body as she entered the bedroom. There were bruises on the victim's head, neck and legs, the medical examiner's report indicated. A postmortem examination performed Wednesday night determined that strangulation was the cause of death, Woelnel said.

Miss Srubas, attractive and with reddish-brown hair, apparently had been home awaiting a call for work. She had worked for a short time in a temporary job at a vitamin company, her mother said, but hadn't been contacted by a private temporary employment agency for further employment since being laid off a few weeks ago.

Bought Work
Mrs. Srubas said her daughter had been in Milwaukee about two months. The two girls had gone there, thinking they would have a better chance for finding work, she said.

She said she had talked to her daughter on the telephone Sunday and that Suzanne had been home two weeks ago and had promised to send her mother the address of her new apartment.

The girls had lived with Miss O'Connell's aunt in Milwaukee until about three weeks ago, Mrs. Srubas said. The apartment, apparently a three-story building at 1600 E. Knapp St., reportedly is in a section of the city where many young, working people lived.

Woelnel said that the victim had last been seen at her apartment about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday but he declined to say who had seen her. He described the location of the apartment as a "rooming house area."

1970 Graduate
Miss Srubas, a 1970 graduate of Menasha High School, was described by her high school guidance counselor, Miss Bernice Miller, as "a very quiet girl...very capable...a good student." She called her "a very nice girl...a wholesome, good citizen."

She had graduated 42nd in a class of 250 and had considered attending college but didn't have enough money.

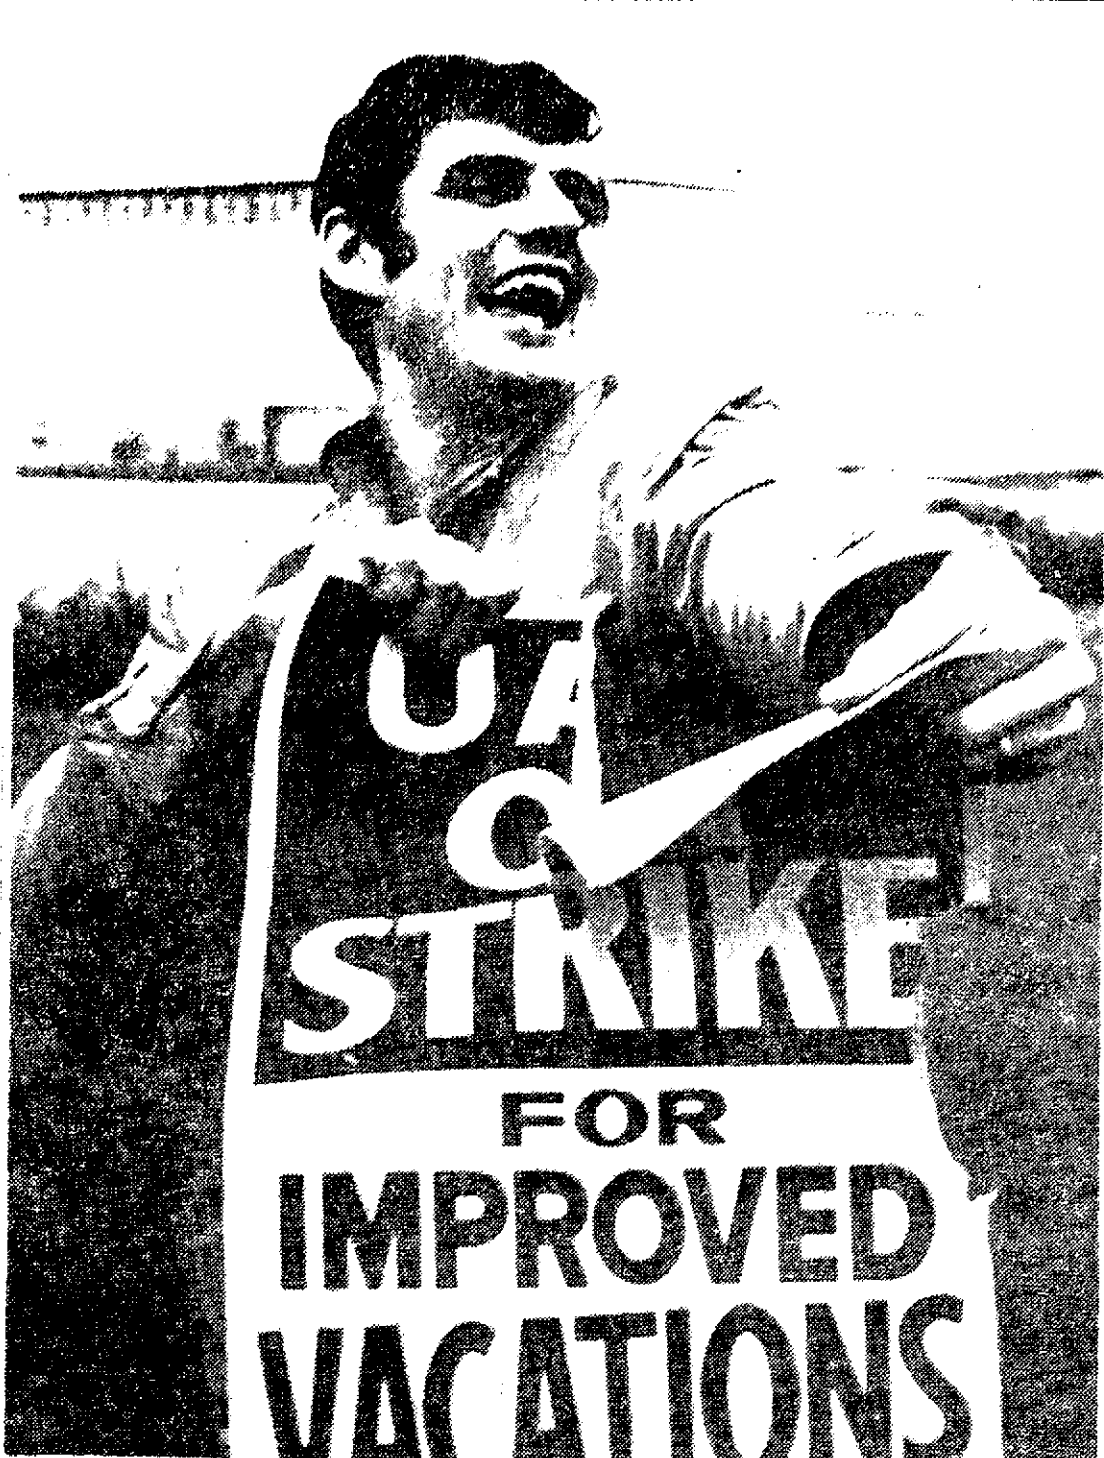

The Srubas family, formerly from a Chicago suburb, had moved to Menasha when Suzanne was in the fifth grade. She graduated from St. Patrick's Catholic Elementary School.

Miss O'Connell is a 1970 graduate of Neenah High School.

The victim's father drove to Milwaukee this morning to talk to authorities.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Laemmrich Funeral Home, Menasha.

Miss Srubas is survived by her parents, three brothers, three sisters, all of Menasha, and her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Kowaleski, Oak Forest, Ill.

A Happy Picket at the Windsor, Ontario, General Motors plant tears up his placard Wednesday after hearing that a tentative settlement had been reached in the eight-week strike of workers in the United States and Canada.

Union Council Reviewing Offers

Vote by Auto Workers Is Pending

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of 394,000 striking General Motors workers met today to decide whether to accept or reject a new three-year contract tentatively agreed on by bargaining table and would almost certainly push the eight-week old strike into 1971.

If the 350-member GM council of the UAW accepts the proposed pact, it will be put before the union rank and file for a vote. Rejection of the pact by the council would send the union's negotiators back to the bargaining table and would almost certainly push the eight-week old strike into 1971.

The contract, whose provisions had been withheld from the public until the GM council meeting, contained these items: —Wage increases or decreases—with no maximum or minimum—of one-cent an hour for each 4 change in the Consumer Price Index. This is the so-called cost-of-living allowance.

—A wage increase in the first year of the contract ranging from 49 to 61 cents an hour, depending on pay scale, and averaging 51 cents.

—Retirement at $500 a month after 30 years of service at age 58 initially and at age 56 after Oct. 1, 1972.

The UAW, which had agreed to a ceiling on cost-of-living allowances in 1967, made a return to the unlimited formula a top demand in this year's negotiations. Unlike the formula in effect prior to 1967, however, workers will get no cost-of-living pay increases during the first year of the contract. On Dec. 5, 1971 their wages will be raised one cent an hour for each 4 rise in the Consumer Price Index during the preceding year. Thereafter, wages will be adjusted in accordance with the Consumer Price Index on a quarterly basis.

Average Raise
In the first year of the contract a worker earning $3.50 an hour or less in straight wages will get a 49-cent raise. A man making $6.34 or more will get a 61-cent-an-hour increase. The worker earning the current average hourly wage in the industry—$4.02 hourly—will get a 51-cent raise.

In each of the last two years of the contract straight wages will be raised by 11 cents an hour for a man making $3.84 or less and by 22 cents an hour for a man making $7.49 or more. A worker earning between $4.50 and $4.83 an hour will get a 12-cent-an-hour raise in each of the last two years.

The union had sought pay increases in the first year ranging from 61.5 cents to 84 cents and averaging 63 cents an hour. The company's last offer before the strike was for a pay hike ranging from 36 cents to 48 cents and averaging 38 cents an hour.

Retirement
The contract allows a worker with 30 years of service to retire at $500 a month at age 58 effective Oct. 1, 1971 and at age 56 effective Oct. 1, 1972. A worker with 30 years service can take early retirement prior to reaching those ages but will get 8 per cent less a month for each year he is under the limit.

Basic pensions will be increased by $1.75 on retirement at age 65 for each year of service. Under the old agreement workers would be retiring at 63 and would get a basic monthly pension of $5.50, $5.75 or $6.00, depending on classifications, for each year of service. They will now get $7.25, $7.50 or $7.75 a month for each year of service.

The company also agreed to increase its maximum contribution to the supplemental unemployment benefit fund from seven cents to 10 cents an hour per worker. Workers who are laid off get up to 90 per cent of the regular wages from the SUB fund.

The contract also provides for four weeks vacation after 20 years.

New York's Chase Bank Cuts Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, announced today a cut in its prime lending rate from 7½ per cent to 7¼ per cent.

The reduction which reflects the interest charged to a bank's most credit-worthy corporate clients, follows a cut Wednesday in the prime rate by a small Washington, D.C., bank, the First National Bank of Washington.

Today's action follows, too, a cut in the discount rate Tuesday by the Federal Reserve Board. The discount rate is the rate the Federal Reserve Board charges member banks for borrowings. The prime rate has been at 7½ per cent since Sept. 21 when it was lowered from 8 per cent by the country's major banks.

De Gaulle Buried After Simple Rites

COLOMBEY LES DEUX EG-LISES, France (AP) — Charles de Gaulle was laid to rest today in a country churchyard while about 40,000 persons crowded this village.

An armored vehicle, draped in the blue, white and red tricolor of France, left the home where De Gaulle died Monday, bearing the simple wooden casket.

Crowds lined the streets leading to the white-washed Roman Catholic church. Some made the V sign, symbol of Allied victory in World War II.

The widow and other members of the family followed in black limousines.

The morning had been filled with sunshine, but the clouds began moving in to darken the day as if to fit the mood of the hour. While soldiers saluted the coffin, pallbearers—all young men of the village—carried it into the church.

The choir, also composed of the young of the village, sang a requiem. The first pews were occupied by the mayor and the village council. Many mourners held lighted candles.

The coffin lay on a wooden base. Six candles flickered around it. There were no flowers in the church. The only decoration was two sprays of autumn leaves at the altar.

De Gaulle's son, Philippe, a navy captain, his profile remarkably like that of his father, sat near Andre Malraux, wartime and postwar intimate of De Gaulle, in the midst of the congregation.

Second Epistle of St. Paul to Timothy was read by the Rev. Francois de Gaulle, the general's nephew.

At Mass
The mass was celebrated by Father de Gaulle, the Rev. Claude Jaugey, the village curate, and the local bishop, Msgr. Alfred Atton.

"We are gathered here in the unanimity of our attachment and our recognition of Gen. de Gaulle, who called to Him," the bishop said. As Christians, we are all the more deeply united by our faith in the infinite love of God. It is to Him we address our prayers for Charles de Gaulle, for his family, for France."

The bishop read from the Bible of the resurrection of Lazarus, then asked for silence and meditation. Outside the crowd listened to the service over loudspeakers.

Notre Dame Requiem Mass Has No Eulogy, No Pomp

PARIS (AP) — France said the 800-year-old cathedral for the Requiem Mass celebrated by Francois Cardinal Marty, the archbishop of Paris.

Prayer for Soul

De Gaulle's name was pronounced only four times in 45 minutes of prayer for his soul. There was no eulogy, no playing of taps, no symbolic catafalque. This simplicity heeded to the strong-willed general's wishes, expressed in instructions he wrote in 1952.

About 5,000 people—2,000 of them invited guests—crowded into the limestone interior of the cathedral. The high vaulted ceiling and the mighty pillars holding up the galleries along the nave were brightly lit by television lights. The crowd pressed under the galleries, restrained by police, and prayed aloud as the cardinal celebrated the Mass.

Thousands more filled the surrounding gray streets and the esplanade in front of the cathedral on the Ile de la Cite, in the middle of the Seine. More thousands lined the boulevards through which the official guests traveled to the cathedral.

World Leaders
The world's representatives ranged from Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a tiny, aged figure in beribboned military uniform, to Prince Charles of Britain, whose youth and bright complexion stood out among the elders, many of them De Gaulle's contemporaries.

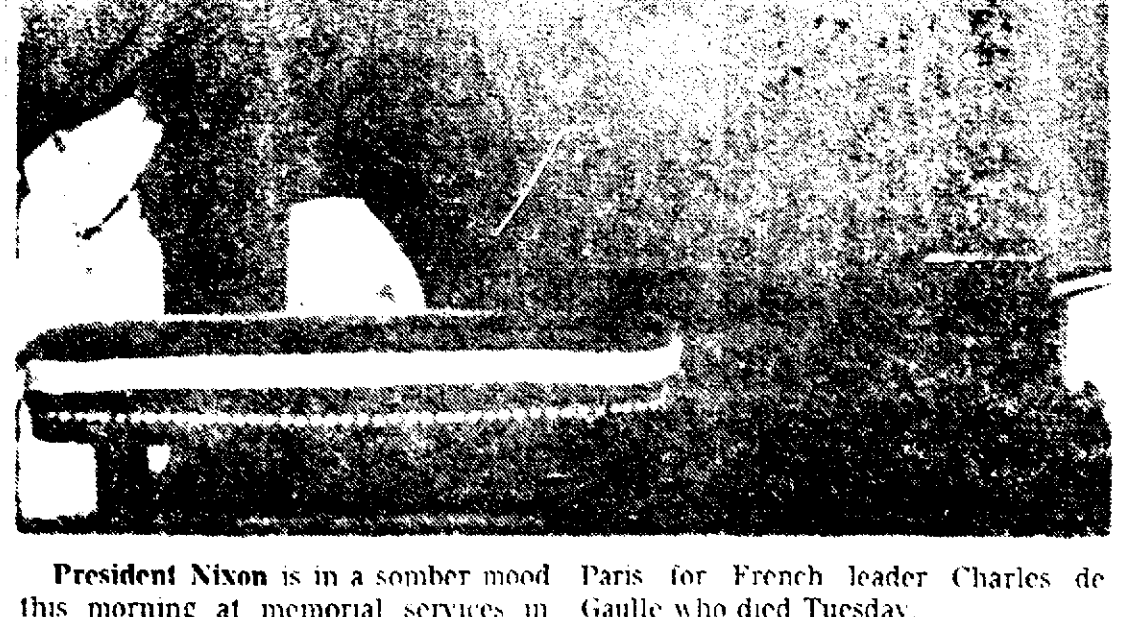

In Paris, the monarchs and the princes, the presidents and the premiers sat on little red plush chairs before the altar of the cathedral.

Proxmire for President?

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Wednesday night he is flatly opposed to a group being formed to boost him for a presidential nomination, but is interested in his Senate job.

The committee—"US Senator William Proxmire for President"—was announced by Richard D. Cudahy, former Democratic state chairman and president of the meat packing firm which carries his family's name.

"We feel we have our man in Sen. Proxmire," Cudahy said. "It's a long way until 1972."

President Nixon is in a somber mood Paris for French leader Charles de Gaulle who died Tuesday.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — tax and loan accounts—ranging from $5 billion to $10 billion—House Banking Committee said today he is drafting a bill which would allow savings and loan associations to offer checking account service.

Many Factors Still Block Return to Full Production at GM

DETROIT (AP) — Despite a tentative new contract settlement, General Motors Corp. is likely to find the road back to becoming the world's largest builder of automobiles filled with bumps after an eight-week strike.

Earl R. Bramblett, a GM vice president and its chief negotiator, said earlier that a new national economic agreement with the United Auto Workers had to come by Wednesday—when it did—if GM was to have a chance of resuming full production by Dec. 1.

But the corporation must travel over a series of figurative rocks before it gets back to spewing out 26,000 vehicles a day, consuming among other things, 130,000 tires and wheels and miles of glass, carpeting and steel.

Parts Supplies The auto industry does not keep large inventories of parts, but uses trains and trucks as travelling warehouses, pouring thousands of car pieces into the assembly lines on precise schedules.

The production and delivery of each engine, fender, transmission, speedometer, etc., by GM and its suppliers must be timed carefully so the proper section of the car arrives at the proper place on the assembly line at the proper moment.

Some of the things littering the road back to full production, with more than 394,000 production workers again manning GM assembly lines are:

Approval of the new contract by the UAW's 350-member GM Council, representing 155 GM-UAW bargaining units across the country.

Ratify Agreement —Ratification of the agreement by a majority of both skilled and unskilled UAW members, voting in separate local union elections by secret ballot.

Agreement on at-the-plant working agreements, which sup- plement the national contract, and each plant will have its own plan "related to its individual circumstances."

Industrial Plants He also explained that startup after an eight-week idleness is complex, differs from plant to plant and each plant will have its own plan "related to its individual circumstances."

Grand Chute Offers Land For Landfill

The Town of Grand Chute has offered Outagamie County its 40-acre dump site free for use as a sanitary landfill site.

The offer was in the form of a letter from Town Chairman Ira Livingston and was authorized by the town board.

The letter was referred to the board's Zoning Committee, of which Supv. Bernard Tillman of the Town of Grand Chute is chairman.

In his letter Livingston said "The cost of a solid waste disposal site is too expensive for the taxpayers of one community to bear. Our offer will demonstrate our concern for the solution of this problem, and the willingness to work with others."

The dump site, which is operated by the town as a modified landfill, is located about one-half mile north of County Trunk JJ and about one-half mile west of State 47.

Livingston wrote, "This site can be the initial county demonstration site and would alleviate the fears of misinformed residents and assist the county in acquiring future larger sites."

The county board already has approved the county's involvement in solid waste disposal and an ad hoc committee is now investigating possible sites to serve the area.

A technical subcommittee of the ad hoc committee, in a review of existing facilities in the county in August, indicated that the Grand Chute dump site was in a floodplain zone and that portions of the site are plagued with ground water problems.

Presently under consideration by the ad hoc committee are two potential sites, one in the Town of Grand Chute and the other at the Outagamie County Airport.

An attempt is being made to set up a meeting between the ad hoc and Airport committees and Federal Aviation Administration officials on the feasibility of using land in the noise control zones off the ends of the airport runways for solid waste disposal sites.

Bubolz Urges Talks

Planners React to County Proposal

The Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) is taking a wait-and-see attitude on the apparent move by Outagamie County to join COG, as well as to continue membership in Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, during 1971.

Northeastern, the nonmetropolitan agency of which the county has been a member for years, has reacted immediately to the move by proposing in a position statement by Gordon A. Bubolz, its chairman, to initiate talks on merging the two agencies.

Bubolz said he proposed to Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, COG chairman, Tuesday that "both planning commissions name committees of commissioners who will meet and discuss a merger."

Anderson said Wednesday that he would bring the suggestion to the floor next week at the monthly COG governing body meeting.

The county executive committee recently adopted a resolution appropriating over $61,000 for calendar 1971 to pay the entire share of COG expenses for the Outagamie communities belonging to the metropolitan planning agency. The intent is for the county to become involved in COG, an executive committee member said.

There would be a trial period to determine which agency the county should join in 1972, or whether to support a merging of the two.

There has been criticism that the two agencies now overlap in Winnebago and Outagamie counties, causing an unnecessary expense. State Rep. David Martin, R-Neenah, has begun conducting hearings on this overlap problem.

Northeastern has nine county members, including Winnebago and Outagamie, and handles 15 municipality members, including towns, villages and cities in the two counties. All Fox Cities cities and villages and six adjacent towns are members.

Bubolz, in his statement reportedly distributed to county supervisors today, said the merger "would eliminate competition between the planning staffs of the two planning agencies." He also proposed that a combined unit would have an urban and rural division under a common director and would direct a "singular, productive effort towards the planning problems of the entire region."

He said that Northeastern would set up a committee for merger talks.

Anderson said talks always are valuable but that any decision "would depend on the reaction" of the COG governing body. He said much talk would be needed.

He said that it's too early to analyze effects of a merger, but noted that "it would depend on many, many things" as to whether it would work.

The mayor, however, said that he felt that county participation in COG would be valuable. "Since we (COG members) do represent a majority of the population in the county, we should have a greater degree of county participation," he said.

He noted that COG, in planning for the member communities and the Fox Cities region, "actually is doing a vast amount of the planning (in the county) at the present time."

Bubolz's position paper was a reaction to questions posed by a reporter. While the questions were aimed at reaction to the county joining COG, he directed his remarks completely at the prospects and benefits of a merger of the two planning agencies.

He noted times when the two agencies had cooperated on projects, including a site feasibility study for the proposed county jail-courthouse.

Bubolz agreed there would be problems but said they could be resolved. He said that one would be the danger of hurting existing agencies' projects.

He listed four advantages. It would provide a central facility for all planning queries to be answered. Northeastern's housing planner has designed a facility which the agencies could lease on a short-term basis from a private developer.

Other advantages, he said, would be joint use of equipment, the elimination of the need for a state coordinator to visit the two agencies weekly to prevent duplication of projects and "a merged rural-urban planning commission would give this area a unified, strong voice in petitioning for federal and state grants and aids."

Anderson said the agencies would have to sit down and see what the advantages and disadvantages are. He noted the Martin study might also provide help.

Outagamie to Join COG, Northeastern

County Warns Planners to End Feud

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County will finance memberships in two planning agencies in 1971 but has served notice that it wants the regional planning feud stopped by the end of that year or it may quit both.

In a 33-11 vote, supervisors agreed Wednesday to pick up the $61,000 that eight Outagamie County communities would have to pay next year for membership in the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

The county also will pay $23,114 for its membership in the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Wednesday's action was not final, however. Payment of the membership fees is contingent on contractual agreements and legal questions being resolved to the satisfaction of the board's executive committee.

Meeting Called
County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, called a meeting of the executive committee for Nov. 20 to settle those questions. DeLaHunt said it was important the questions be resolved before Dec. 1 so the communities involved could set their budgets.

Approval of paying the $61,000 did not come as easily as the vote margin would suggest. To help offset the effect on the tax levy, the board reduced the proposed contingency fund for next year from $150,000 to $100,000.

County Administrator Alvin Woehler warned committees they would then have to recognize there could be no deviation from their departmental budgets next year. Woehler originally had asked for a $200,000 contingency fund and it previously had been cut by the finance committee.

Leads Rural Fight
Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, led a fight of representatives from communities not now belonging to COG.

"It may be futile to talk against subsidizing Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna," Babbitt said. "Why aren't you honest?" he asked of proponents of the move. "If it costs $61,000 to get rid of Northeastern, put it on paper."

Some unexpected support for the payment came from Supv. Ervin Conradt, rural Shiocton. "I'm not always anti-urban," he quipped. "I am sympathetic to the cause of the municipalities because they have helped us (rural areas of the county) these past years," he said.

Conradt was referring to the county's membership in Northeastern for which the entire county is assessed but only the rural areas served. "We will be helping the municipalities for one year in return for benefits we received the last eight or nine years," Conradt said.

However, several other rural supervisors objected to paying while not receiving any of the benefits of membership.

Supv. Alfred Krause, Town of Liberty, said "I can't see the benefit of belonging to two. We should serve notice we will not belong to either in 1972 if they don't get together."

Town of Vandenberg Supv. George Kroes said he thought the entire county would benefit whether or not the communities were formally members. He said COG had done work for the Town of Vandenberg before it became a member.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, said the county's action would "motivate" the planning agencies to get together. He said he did not think the concern was to have money for the cities but rather to have the county take more of a service role.

In other action, the board approved preliminary plans to refinance four of its short-term notes in a consolidated bond issue.

The four notes, two on the airport, one for a Plamann School addition and the fourth for the Highway Department office and courthouse parking, total $1,262,500.

The principal payments on the four notes which would be due in 1971 amount to $387,500. In waiving those payments, the board agreed to make double payments in 1972 if a bond issue is not floated next year.

Woehler said the notes would be combined with the bond issue for the new jail, if a jail is built. However, he said, "I would recommend bonding whether you build a jail or not. I don't feel we should finance capital improvements with short-term notes."

Judge Rules Out Books as Evidence

A Circuit Court decision, granting defense motions to suppress the evidence against a former Appleton bookseller, may bring the dismissal of one of four felony charges pending against him.

Hundreds of allegedly obscene publications seized from the store of Errol J. Simpson, 33, cannot now be introduced against him in court, according to Judge Andrew W. Parnell.

"It may be futile to talk against subsidizing Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna," Babbitt said. "Why aren't you honest?" he asked of proponents of the move. "If it costs $61,000 to get rid of Northeastern, put it on paper."

Some unexpected support for the payment came from Supv. Ervin Conradt, rural Shiocton. "I'm not always anti-urban," he

Long said the ruling does not mean the publications have to be returned to Simpson, unless a court orders it. He still considers the items seized obscene, according to state statute.

Police went to the store at 902 W. Wisconsin Ave., on July 8 and returned to the courthouse with two truckloads of items. They were exercising a search warrant signed by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Simpson's Milwaukee attorneys held that actions on the part of police constituted an illegal search. There was no adversary hearing prior to the issuance of the search warrant to determine the issue of obscenity, and the warrant failed to describe particular magazines to be seized. The latter fact left to the discretion of the officer which magazines to take.

Judge's Decision
Parnell said the motion to suppress the evidence seized as a result of the search warrant "is sustainable on both claims on the basis of an abundance of compelling authorities supporting it."

Simpson is scheduled to have a trial on four felony counts on Dec. 1. Three of the charges involve the sale of purportedly obscene magazines to police in April and July 8. The fourth count, which may be dropped, stems from the July 8 raid.

He is in the county jail under a reduced bond and $10,000. Simpson has been in custody since the July date, and pleaded innocent last week in Circuit Court to the four charges.

Countermovement Begins

Valley Teachers Fear Milwaukee Control of WEA

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fox Valley educators are starting a movement to stop what they fear is an attempt by the Milwaukee metropolitan area teachers to take over control of the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA), which represents over 40,000 teachers throughout Wisconsin.

"We're just making sure the WEA is the WEA, not the MEA (Milwaukee Education Association)," said Mrs. R. J. Wallace, teacher at Appleton's Foster Elementary School and an Appleton Education Association (AEA) delegate to the WEA convention last week.

She said that educators at Neenah, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Kaukauna have joined ed Appleton in seeking to alert the rest of the state to the possible power play.

"We're making sure that we're heard loud and clear at the WEA," she said.

AEA delegates set up a committee Monday night to compose letters and to investigate the organization through which the takeover possibly would be made — the Association of Classroom Teachers (ACT), which Mrs. Wallace said is now dominated by Milwaukee area teachers. The ACT is affiliated with the WEA.

There was an attempt last spring at the WEA delegate assembly spring session to double the WEA contribution to the ACT, but it was killed, she said, and no funds were allotted.

The fears, however, arose again last Saturday at the delegate assembly session at the end of the WEA annual convention. The 10 Appleton delegates and those of some other schools walked out of the session in protest of the way it was conducted and what they felt was a lack of a quorum.

Many Valley educators felt the assembly "was a railroad job," as WEA President James Guckenberger presided over the presentation and the voting on several resolutions. Mrs. Wallace said. She accused Guckenberger, a former ACT president, of manipulating the meeting to bring out desired comment on resolutions.

The Valley delegates also felt that he often ignored their request to speak on resolutions and accepted too close a verbal vote on certain resolutions. Mrs. Wallace also said a quorum wasn't present for all resolution votes.

Guckenberger, who was elected last week to his second consecutive term as WEA president — the first time this has happened — denied that he had run the session improperly. He said resolutions "always have been approved by voice votes" and that a quorum had been present for all votes.

"I felt that it was one of the better representative assemblies we've had," he said, "with the indepth thinking that the representatives put into their discussion, in the number of concerns that came before the association and in the parliamentary expertise that the representatives demonstrated."

Guckenberger said he "knew a few walked out in protest."

Denied Contention
He also denied the contention that he had amended WEA by-laws to allow himself to run for a second consecutive term. There was no policy on this, he said, noting that "they re-elected me because... why do people re-elect a president?" He is in office for two years.

In the past, the president-elect normally was elected president the next year. Guckenberger, a reading teacher at West Allis Wright Junior High School, is on a leave of absence while he's in office.

Mrs. Wallace said there had been a quorum of the 855 delegates when the assembly opened Saturday, but by 7:30 p.m. that day, many had left as they were dragged on. She noted the Milwaukee metropolitan area delegation left when its resolutions were adopted.

Mrs. Wallace is composing a letter to AEA members informing them of the events and other AEA leaders are preparing a letter to certain other education association locals. She said the valley delegates watched how other delegates voted and know which communities voted with the valley delegates and against them.

Hilbert High Invites Parents

Program Planned To Present Phases Of Curriculum

HILBERT — Parents of high school students are being invited to go to school again Monday night.

Purpose of the program is to give them the opportunity to "sit in" on two different phases of the high school curriculum. Abbreviated presentations will be given by faculty members, and there will be a period for questions.

The tentative schedule, according to Principal James Jacobson, begins with a general meeting in the multi-purpose room at 8 p.m.

The first session will be from 8:15 to 8:35 p.m. and the second session from 8:35 to 9 p.m. when there will be individual conferences, if desired, until 10 p.m.

Parents will be given the opportunity to attend two sessions in the area of mathematics, business education, science, home economics, English social studies, German, industrial arts, music, physical education or the Brillion Cooperative Vocational School.

Community Fund Drive in Hilbert Short of Goal

HILBERT — The Community Fund Drive, sponsored in the village of the Chamber of Commerce, has fallen short of its $2,500 goal by $26.50. A total of $2,473.50 was collected, according to Leander Roehrig, chairman of the drive.

Clarence Hemauer and Clarence Stengel headed the businessmen's canvass and Mrs. Lawrence Maulhe and Mrs. Leander Roehrig were in charge of the residential campaign. Mrs. Ernest Pitzer served as secretary and Herbert Krueger was treasurer.

Benefiting organizations will be Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Cancer Research, Heart Fund, Salvation Army, Cerebral Care Center and Calumet County Palsy, Calumet County Day Care Center and Calumet County Association for Retarded Children, United Services Organization Children's Service Society and Calumet County Mental Health Association.

United Fund Still Short of Goal In Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Contributions collected to-date in the United Fund drive total $10,336, with pledges of $1,412, for a grand total of $11,743.

Some $5,258.73 is still needed to make the $17,000 goal.

Personal calls will be made to the business places that possibly have been overlooked. Glenn Heuer have offered to pick up contributions anyone cares to make. They may be contacted by telephone.

Valders Man Fined $75 on Reduced Charge

CHILTON — Gordon Strauss, Valders, was ordered to pay a fine of $75 on a disorderly conduct charge when he appeared before Calumet County Judge D. H. Seborra Wednesday.

The disorderly conduct count was a reduced charge from aiming a firearm at John H. Krueger, operator of the Wells Green Room.

The original complaint signed by Krueger stated that when Strauss had been refused the sale of a case of beer, he had gone out to his car and came back with a shot gun which he aimed at Krueger.

Meals for Needy

Free Lunch Policy Set At Clintonville School

CLINTONVILLE — The board of education of St. Rose Catholic School has adopted a policy to provide lunches free or at reduced rates for children from families with low income.

The charge for students who can pay is 35 cents. However, since some families find it difficult to pay this price, the school will provide lunches free of charge or at a reduced price to children determined by Rev. Robert Sladek to be unable to pay the full price for their lunches.

Parents who feel that their children may be eligible for free or reduced price lunches are urged to apply. Copies of the application form were sent home with a letter to parents earlier this week. Additional copies may be obtained at the school office. The completed application, signed by an adult member of the family should be returned to the Rev. Sladek. It will be reviewed promptly and within seven days the family will be notified in writing as to the decision made. All information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence.

Any unusual circumstances which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches, such as prolonged illness or emergencies in the family, will be considered.

Bishop Tells Of $1.2 Million Diocese Budget

2nd Annual Drive Will Seek to Raise Total of $795,000

About $1.2 million will be needed in 1971 to cover the cost of administrative, educational and social welfare needs of the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay, the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop, has announced.

In a statement issued at a press conference Wednesday, he said that of this amount, $795,000 will be sought through the second annual diocesan services appeal.

The rest of the needed funds will be realized from diocesan investments, parish assessments and contributions, the prelate said.

This is the second time in the history of the diocese that the diocesan budget has been made public. Wycislo announced the budget last year when he opened the first diocesan services appeal.

The 1970 budget was $1,145,800. The appeal was $750,000, which was met.

This year's appeal, the bishop said, is slightly higher because of two additions, the education fund of $100,000 to meet emergencies in the school system, and the $25,000 U. S. Bishop's Campaign for human development to initiate self-help programs in poverty areas.

The agencies benefiting from the services appeals, as outlined by Wycislo Wednesday are:

— Department of Religious Education-CCD, $112,400. "Recognizing the fact that the majority of Catholic students are in public schools the education department to provide full-time coordinators for every parish."

— Newman Apostolate, $72,100. "The church must be explained to the young people in modern times in line with their education and experience."

— Priests' health program, $27,000. "To insure that every priest in top physical, mental, and emotional health, the program encourages annual physical check-ups. Since its inception this past year, the program has been used by 150 priests."

Consideration is given to extending the services to the sisters in the diocese.

— Diocesan missionary activities, $14,100. The diocese has three priests doing missionary work in the Dominican Republic.

— Priests' education program, $20,000. It allows some to continue their education at graduate schools. Plans are to enlarge the program so that every priest can attend an annual seminar on such topics as theology, Scripture and public speaking.

— Home for elderly and low income families, $3,500. The first project is Villa West, in Green Bay. Recently the Federal Housing Administration released funds for its construction.

— Catholic charities, (apostolate) $173,500. Includes adoption services, foster care, marriage and family counseling and financial assistance.

— Seminary, $100,000

— Vocations, $8,000

— Holy Land, $14,000

A contingency fund of $125,000 also has been established.

Asked where the money from the contingency fund was being used, Wycislo said that there are many unexpected needs that that day so teachers will be available to talk with parents.

Members of the National Honor Society will assist both parents and teachers during the 9 and will continue practice teaching here through Jan. 15

People Pay Through Nose For Continuing Air Pollution

By JOHN HARTZEL
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Air pollution may cause as much as $30 billion damage a year in the United States, according to Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

People will be paying through the nose as long as pollutants are put in the air, and this apparently will be the case at least until their noses stop functioning.

Although the problem may not be very obvious to some, many are vividly aware of it. A 50 per cent reduction in air pollution could save $2.08 billion a year in costs resulting from disease, a study conducted this year at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh concluded.

"When the wind is in the northeast, I tell them to get out of town, and we'll call you when the wind has shifted," said a doctor whose patients suffering from upper respiratory ailments live southwest of a Wisconsin power plant.

"If we cannot protect the health of the nation because it would require some tough decisions that interfere with the traditional right of free enterprise to do business as usual, then I suggest the system and the people are in jeopardy," said Nelson.

Residents of urban areas often don't feel as well as their suburban and rural counterparts, even if they are not actually sick.

"It stinks," said a security guard at a firm located in a large Wisconsin industrial area. "When it gets so bad it makes you sick to your stomach, how much worse can it get?"

Residents near a paper mill claim the smell at times has been so strong that it wakes them up in the middle of the night.

Industrial dusts alone probably cause $600 million damage a year in the nation's 85 major metropolitan areas, reports economist Thomas Crocker, who has taught at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Crocker said flower beds and shrubbery don't grow as well as they could in cleaner air.

Garden plants have turned dry and rusty when soot fell on their dew dampened leaves, said a Wisconsinite living near a paper mill.

Crop Damage
Crop damage amounting to more than $500 million annually is caused by air pollution, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"It's getting to a point where, if something isn't done soon, we won't have any plants. Plants are the basis of our food. And if we don't stop air pollution soon, we're going to find ourselves without any crops," said Dr. William Ogden.

Crocker reports that homes are dingier or require fresh paint more often because of air pollution.

Steel corrodes 220 to 400 per cent faster in urban areas, according to another study.

Green colored snow on the ground, green stains on homes, sidewalks and tree trunks and pitted aluminum window frames and siding are blamed by some state residents on brass dust from a valve company.

"We live with smoke. We continually have to wipe it from our furniture and draperies," said a housewife who lives near a city dump.

Crocker claims urban residents, their clothes and their cars have more dirt and grime because of air pollution.

As much as $400 to $600 damage to a family's clothing each year is caused by air pollution, Prof. Kenneth Salvib of North Carolina University has determined.

He said air pollution tends to fade blue fabrics, discolor white fabrics, change color of permanent press items and cause strength loss in natural and man-made fibers.

A housewife who lives near a state power plant claims she has to wipe black, greasy soot from her clothesline before hanging wash. And one of her neighbors claims the air at times has been so thick with flakes it looked like black snow was falling.

Steam Engine
"The laundry that comes off my clothesline at times is dirtier than it was to begin with," said a Wisconsin woman whose home is near the tracks of a touring steam engine train.

One man claims he has had to scrape corn flour from his car like snow after parking the vehicle for several hours near a milling firm.

The problem of air pollution is thus obvious. But it has become so commonplace that some people "miss" it and other people even think it is "good."

"Sometimes residents near foundry areas call to say that something is wrong if they walk out in the morning and don't feel cinders crunching under their feet," said Otto Dudy, information and training officer for the Milwaukee County air pollution control department.

"I'm often reminded of the little boy who, when asked what he likes, said, 'I like the smell the bus makes when it pulls away from the curb,'" said Dr. John Herschboeck, co-ordinator of the Wisconsin Regional Medical Program.

Village Signs New Contract For Rubbish
COMBINED LOCKS — The village board voted to enter into a six-month contract with James Lehrer, operator of a sanitary landfill disposal site in the Town of Buchanan, for handling village rubbish at a cost of $3 per ton.

Formerly Lehrer handled the rubbish at a rate of $216.66 per month, but this was before he adopted the sanitary landfill method for disposal of debris. It is estimated by village officials that rubbish from the community runs between 15 and 20 tons per week.

A committee of trustees and officials was approved to screen applicants for the position of police chief to succeed Ernest Danielson who has announced plans to retire later this year.

Members voted to call a special board meeting prior to Nov. 20 to draft a floodplain zoning ordinance as required by the state.

Large Recommends Change In Student Exchange Plan
State Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Minnesota students attending Bear Creek, has recommended to a meeting of the Interstate Cooperation Commission that the present student exchange plan between Wisconsin and neighboring states should be revised because it is penalizing the Wisconsin taxpayer.

Charging that the present agreement costs the Wisconsin taxpayers almost $400,000 a year Lorge said, "The reason for this is that the number of students from bordering states who attend Wisconsin higher educational institutions on a resident rather than a non-resident fee basis is greater than the number of Wisconsin students attending higher educational institutions in our neighboring states under the present exchange plan."

Citing two examples, Lorge reported that the loss at the University of Wisconsin Center in Marinette is $135,400 because Michigan students attending that school outnumber Wisconsin students attending Michigan schools, and the loss from time save the Wisconsin taxpayers almost $400,000, if neighboring states would be required to pay the difference between the non-resident and the resident fees charged to their students who attend Wisconsin schools", Lorge concluded.

Lorge suggested that the Wisconsin Coordinating Committee on Higher Education revise the present system so as not to penalize Wisconsin students attending schools in states bordering on Wisconsin.

He suggested that Wisconsin students living near the border should be able to attend higher educational institutions in Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, and Iowa and pay only the resident tuition at these schools if they live within a 35 mile radius of the out-of-state school they are attending.

Senator Lorge said the State of Wisconsin should pay the difference between the resident fee and the out-of-state fee charged to the Wisconsin student in this circumstance.

"Revising the present plan would protect the Wisconsin student at a school in a neighboring state, and at the same time save the Wisconsin tax-

Income Averaging May Give Tax Break

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Are you among the millions of Americans who this year received a fat pay hike? Or earned a hefty bonus? Or earned an unusually large fee? Or hit the wildly fluctuating stock market for a big capital gain? Or won a whopping lottery prize? If so, I have good news for you: the 1969 Tax Reform Act liberalized and widened the use of "income averaging," through which you can hold down your tax bill when you suddenly pile a lot of income into one year.

The new income averaging rules for the first time cover long-term capital gains and gambling winnings (which includes lotteries) in addition to other income. Under these liberalized rules, if your 1970 taxable income is more than 120 per cent of the average of your taxable income for the four years 1966-1969, you are eligible to use income averaging to get a lower tax. Before 1970, your taxable income had to be more than 133 1-3 per cent of the average.

To see whether you qualify for this tax break, check your returns for the four years 1966-

Porter

69, add up your taxable incomes for those four years. Divide by four to get your average taxable income.

Now match your average against the following table prepared by the Research Institute of America. This will tell you whether your 1970 taxable income is high enough above the eligibility figure to give you any more savings from the use of income averaging.

Many Causes Seen for Troubles of Elderly

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Problems other than hardening of the arteries can be controlled by diet and-or medication. Many times it is strictly a medical problem — but many times it is not, and the way all causes of trouble. When a brain of us treat the older folk in our problem is acute, and comes on abruptly, it usually can be pinpointed quite accurately as a stroke, tumor, or some toxic condition, and appropriate steps taken.

Other disorders which some- times have to be contended with in older folks are what we call behavioral disorders, not strictly physical conditions, but often be done, unless people see their doctors periodically and find out when something needs to be done about their blood pressure, fear, forgetfulness, unusual or bizarre behavior.

Keep in mind that certain chronic disorders can lie in the background, contributing to arteriosclerosis and hence to loss of mental powers. I have in mind principally diabetes and gout, both of them widespread, both of them amenable to being kept under control, both of them ed standby in the right cases. times it can be corrected. However, sedatives, while some- times glibly prescribed, ordi- narily are not well tolerated. Medical problem — but many times it is not, and the way all causes of trouble. Another source of difficulty: diabetes that would cause sugar can be — and too often is — in the blood? — Mrs. P. emotional: loneliness, worry (economic worries take their toll), abandonment or loss of social contacts, a feeling of being left out. All these can have a very real bearing on the same is true for some forms of emotional and mental re- sponses.

It's just too much trouble, and they fall into a habit of eating the same restricted and inadequate diet day after day. That, too, can sap mental capabilities.

Plea Is Expected In Ohta Case

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — John Linley Frazier, accused of the Ohta family mass murder last month, is scheduled to enter formal pleas Thursday to five counts of murder.

Frazier, 24, pleaded innocent in Municipal Court Oct. 23, the day of his arrest, to murder charges filed by Dist. Atty. Peter Chang. Frazier's attorney asked for a delay in Superior Court pleading two weeks ago after the Santa Cruz County grand jury indicted Frazier for the murders.

FAA Rule to Curb Crews' Drinking Before Take-Off

WASHINGTON — A safety Regulations which provides that no person may act as a crewmember of a civil aircraft within eight hours after consuming alcoholic beverages has been adopted by the Federal Aviation Administration. Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe has announced.

The eight-hour alcohol rule was devised to discourage pilots from drinking alcoholic beverages prior to flight, the Secretary said. "The primary aim in issuing the new regulation, however, is not with the large group of responsible pilots but with the small marginal group for whom it is needed."

The new rule, which becomes effective on Dec. 5, adds language to the existing rule in Part 91 of the Federal Aviation be jeopardized. The rule is not intended to relax any stricter company rules now used by air carriers and other operators of aircraft," he said.

FAA studies during the past few years have indicated that there is a reasonable possibility that the use of alcohol has contributed to a number of aircraft accidents.

State Fair Head Sees Profit In City Exposition Center

WAUKESHA (AP) — State Fair Administrator Vernon Wendland said Wednesday a $40 million, year-around exposition center could be operated at a $16 million annual profit if built in the Milwaukee area.

The statement was in a report to a state task force studying the future of the Wisconsin State Fair.

The committee voted last month to recommend the fair be moved to a new site.

An "ideally located" center could gross $7.1 million a year once it became operational, Wendland said. About $6.1 million in expenditures—including $2.5 million in annual debt retirement—would be required to operate such a center, Wendland proposed.

A 15 million square foot sports and entertainment center with 18,000 permanent seats. Cost $22.5 million.

A one-mile paved race track with 30,000 permanent seats. Cost $10 million.

A 335,000 square foot exhibition building. Cost $7.37 million.

A 335,000 square foot agriculture activity complex. Cost $4 million.

Possible Revenues

Bills would be paid from revenues from pro basketball and hockey at the sports center, as well as auto racing, craft and trade shows, an enclosed Olympic ice rink, a hotel-motel complex and a new Milwaukee Area Technical College at the site.

Wendland said such a center could be operated either at the present West Allis fairgrounds or at a new site.

The revenue estimates, he said, were "minimum expectations" based on a 16-day fair instead of the present 10 days.

The only known site for a fairgrounds is a 600-acre track in Franklin John J. Holzhauser, president of the land development firm which offered to sell the tract, said that unless the committee recommends state acquisition of the land, it won't be available long.

The committee delayed final action on its recommendations until December. Committee chairman Paul Hassett, former aide to Gov. Warren P. Knowles, appointed a subcommittee to prepare a final draft of recommendations for review at a Dec. 14 meeting in Waukesha.

Employment Group Elects New Officers

John J. Cook, Wausau, assumed the presidency of the Wisconsin Employment Counselors Association (WECA) at the group's annual meeting held recently at Stevens Point. He succeeds Peter A. Fadness, Eau Claire, and will hold the office for one year.

Elected to the office of president elect was Llewellyn E. Daniels of Antigo.

LaVern R. Woodford, Eau Claire, was elected to a two-year term as secretary and William J. Reinholdt, La Crosse, was elected as trustee.

Robert D. Osborn, Madison, retained the office of treasurer. Another trustee, Thomas Lonsdorf, Wausau, also retained his office.

A Pamphlet Detailing the workings of the court system is discussed with four students from Appleton High School-East Tuesday by Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. Conversing with Schaefer are, from left, Jeff Schiesel, Sue Kunstman, Gary Sollberger and Jim Johnson. About 1,400 students attended criminal and traffic sessions of the court last year. Schaefer feels the program lends young people an understanding and significance of law in their lives.

Rogers blamed the Republican attempt to connect student unrest and lawlessness to the Democratic party as the reason for the Democratic landslide victory in the last election. "Republicans failed to face the student unrest situation honestly," he claimed.
